Reagan, Nixon Meet Today In Hideaway

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon huddled today in the seclusion of a plush forest hideaway. Nixon, who arranged the meeting, says "there will be no deal-making" about the 1968 presidential campaign.

They agreed beforehand there would be no political strings attached to their session at Bohemian Grove, a hideaway for wealthy businessmen on the Russian River north of San Francisco and west of Sacramento.

"There will be no deal-making," said Nixon, the unsuccessful GOP nominee in 1960, in a curbside interview Friday in San Francisco. Nixon said the 1968 political campaign would be discussed, but strictly on an informal, noncommittal basis.

Several other prominent Republican figures planned to be at Bohemian Grove.

Referring to the 1968 campaign, Reagan commented before leaving Sacramento: "I just have a strange hunch that subject will not come up."

But Reagan's close advisers were certain it would, and said the governor was determined to keep the political conversation in general terms.

"I intend to listen," said Reagan, whose supporters are convinced Nixon could not make a good showing in the primaries and Reagan would inherit much of the former vice president's support.

Newsman were barred from the meeting.

Nixon said he is respecting Reagan's declared intention to be a favorite son candidate from California, adding that "any potential candidate should respect the right of any favorite son to have his delegation and should not interfere with the makeup of that delegation."

Reagan has said he will be a favorite son in the interest of party unity, hoping to avoid a bitter battle between leading presidential contenders during the June 1968 California primary election campaign.

Nixon said Friday he would decide about the end of this year whether to become a formal candidate. The first primary, a key one, is in New Hampshire in March.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., who invited Reagan to Bohemian Grove, met the governor in his office Friday and they then drove to the resort.

Other prominent Republicans expected at Bohemian Grove: Sen. John Tower of Texas; Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, who met with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower this week; and former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's running mate in 1960. Goldwater said he did not plan to attend.

Robber Caught With Pants Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police caught a suspected bank robber with his pants down—literally.

Police said the suspect, Maurice Marshall, 23, of Washington, casually was changing clothes in a car when he was apprehended Friday. The car was behind a Riggs National Bank branch where a gunman had made off with $1,000 a few minutes earlier.

Police said the whole affair was pretty casual. After getting the money, they said, the suspect bade a polite goodbye to an unsuspecting doorman and sauntered to the car—followed by curious customers from the bank.

Fully dressed again, Marshall was arraigned before U.S. Dist. Judge Tim Murphy on a bank robbery charge.

Newark Delegates May Ask UN Action

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Delegates to a quiet conference on black power exploded into sudden action Friday night, wildly cheering proposals to recall Mayor Hugh Addonizio and ask the United Nations to investigate the treatment of Negroes in the United States.

The more than 400 Negroes of the rally shouted their approval of demands to release without bail every Negro arrested in the recent riots here and of a statement supporting "the right of black people to revolt when they deem it necessary and in their interests."

Floyd McKissick, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, poet-playwright Leroi Jones, Los Angeles black nationalist Ron Karenga and comedian Dick Gregory suggested the various resolutions as the more militant factions took over a night meeting.

With a few conspicuous exceptions, whites were excluded from what had originally been billed as a public meeting in the Mt. Zion AME church.

McKissick, after a long, frequently applauded speech on the theme that whites are determined to exterminate American Negroes, drew a standing ovation when he announced a plan to recall the mayor.

"Too long white elected officials have been immune from the wrath of the black population," he said as delegates stood

Gromyko Fails To Convince Balking Arabs

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With a U.S.-Soviet compromise balked by Arab opposition, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was heading home today without the prize the Russians had sought—a United Nations resolution demanding that Israel withdraw its troops from Arab soil.

Gromyko voted with U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg Friday for a procedural resolution to conclude the General Assembly's five-week emergency session on the Middle East crisis. Arab delegates called the resolution a cover-up and voted against it.

The resolution, passed 63-26 with Israel and 26 other countries abstaining, sends the debate back to the Security Council, where it began. The council was expected to meet in one to three weeks on the issue of Israel's take-over of the Jordanian and Israeli sectors of Jerusalem.

Gromyko told newsmen he was satisfied with the 122-nation emergency session because "the overwhelming majority of delegations in this or that form condemned the aggressor," meaning Israel.

But the Russians' last hope that the assembly session they had called might adopt a resolution condemning Israel was dashed when the Arabs refused to go along with a resolution for Israeli withdrawal agreed on by Gromyko and Goldberg Wednesday.

The compromise resolution would have called on the Arab states to end their 19-year state of belligerency against Israel, a concession Algeria and Syria said they could not accept.

Chrysler Claims UAW Unrealistic

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says the United Auto Workers Union is being unrealistic if it thinks its going to get every contract demand it makes.

William M. O'Brien, Chrysler vice president for personnel and a top negotiator, called the UAW package of demands "certainly all-inclusive."

As the second week of contract talks ended, O'Brien told newsmen the UAW's list of goals "covers every aspect of our relationship with them."

"It's probably the most ambitious set of demands we've ever received from the UAW," O'Brien said.

Douglas Fraser, head of the time and time again to roar their approval.

"We have consulted with the progressive black leaders of this community. It is agreed that there must be a recall election to get rid of Hugh Addonizio and replace him with a black mayor."

Gregory, who had suggested the recall during a sometimes funny, but often serious monologue, said only 25,000 signatures — one-quarter of those who voted in the last election in 1966 — would be needed to get a special election. That shouldn't be hard, he said, since more than half of Newark's 400,000 population is Negro.

The crowd, growing more enthusiastic by the minute, gave McKissick a standing ovation,

U.S. May Resume Arms Shipments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering resuming arms shipments to the Middle East — and publicly announcing the quantities it supplies.

In announcing consideration of resuming arms shipments — suspended during the Israeli-Arab war — State Department officials said Friday the Soviet Union apparently still is supplying such Arab nations as Egypt and Algeria with weapons.

The officials said unless Soviet shipments to the Middle East cease, the United States also should sell armaments. They said U.S. failure to do so would shift powers balances in the tinderbox area and perhaps contribute to another outbreak of war.

The State Department officials, who declined identification, made their disclosures amid a congressional controversy over U.S. arms sales to foreign nations.

A bill to extend the life of the Export-Import Bank has been under fire from congressmen who oppose use of the bank to extend credit to nations for purchase of U.S. weaponry.

A number of congressmen have criticized arms sales in the wake of the Israeli-Arab war.

Bishop's Wife To Divorce Him

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The wife of the controversial church leader Bishop James A. Pike is divorcing him after 25 years of marriage.

Esther Pike filed the action Friday, charging mental cruelty. She reported a property settlement has been reached and a hearing is scheduled Tuesday before Superior Court Judge Byron Arnold.

In a joint statement the bishop and his wife said "outside factors beyond the control of either contributed for some time to our drifting apart." They said neither will seek to remarry and had agreed to say nothing beyond their signed statement.

Killed by Earthmover

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Everett R. Lucas, 48, Portsmouth, was killed Friday when run over by an earthmover while working on the expansion of the Dow Chemical Co. plant at nearby Hanging Rock.

Chrysler Claims UAW Unrealistic

UAW's Chrysler department, agreed the union demands were greater than ever before.

"We have more problems than we've ever had before," he added.

Fraser outlined to Chrysler Friday the UAW demands aimed at solving one of the UAW's big problems, 120,000 skilled workers at Big Three plants who claim the union has shortchanged them in past negotiations.

While the tradesmen are the highest-paid class of workers among UAW members in the auto field, they complain that their wages still fall short of those received by workers who do the same jobs outside the industry.

then stood again as Jones, who was arrested and hospitalized early in last week's riots, climbed on stage.

"We are peace-loving people being oppressed," he said to an audience cheering so loudly that they often drowned out his shouted words.

"We demand that a United Nations observation team come into Newark. We will no longer stand for representation by these clowns and these running dogs and these sick Toms. This is the beginning of a new era."

The rally represented a radical change of mood from the day-long workshops, where delegates bent on uniting the slogan "Black Power" worked so hard to develop a program all could agree on.

which found the opposing sides using weapons made in and sold by the United States.

Noting the Soviet Union so far has spurned U.S. proposals for an agreement to hold down Middle East arms deliveries, State Department officials said Friday publication of U.S. shipments now is being considered.

Union Officers Charged with Funds Misuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers says two of its officials squandered $141,747 in union funds, charging it off to everything from a $3 bar bill to $27,000 worth of trucks.

Investigators appointed by union President Paul Jennings leveled the charges at Milton Weirauch and Joseph Iozzi, two of Jennings' staunchest allies in his bitter 1965 election campaign against James B. Carey.

Iozzi denied the charges. Weirauch said he would reply in detail later.

The investigators said Weirauch and Iozzi spent the money over five years on "strike assistance" never received by strikers, salary advances never repaid, unauthorized trips to Miami Beach, liquor, bars, restaurants, racetracks, a $55.71 pipe and a $350 color television set for Weirauch's New Jersey office.

Iozzi, in a telephone interview, said the money went for Jennings' election campaign.

"I absolutely deny that union funds were used for anything other than union purposes and I condemn the members of the investigating committee who are on the international payroll of Paul Jennings," said Iozzi.

Powell Doesn't Come to New York

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell kept a lot of people waiting for him at the black power conference in Newark, N.J., and at Kennedy Airport in New York. He did not show up, and he did not send his regrets.

The ousted congressman from Harlem called a news conference today at his tiny island retreat in the British Bahamas.

Powell also stood up a delegation from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Friday who said in New York they had arranged for Powell to surrender for arrest to New York County Sheriff John J. McCloskey.

Powell's troubles in his constituency stem from a 1963 libel judgment against the congressman by Esther James, a widow whom Powell called a "bag woman" — a graft collector for crooked police.

Abandoned Zinc Mine Swallows 2 Houses

PICHER, Okla. (AP) — A long-abandoned zinc mine far below the earth collapsed here early today, swallowing two houses and five automobiles into a huge 25-foot-deep hole. There were no injuries reported.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said the area affected was the size of a football field. National Guardsmen and highway patrolmen roped it off.

GE Can't Find 9,000 Harmful Color TV Sets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 9,000 color television set owners and their families may be exposed to harmful radioactive rays from their sets, says the government.

It urged the unknown owners of the large-screen color consoles and table models manufactured by the General Electric Co. and sold between Sept. 1, 1966 and May 31, 1967 to pull the plugs and keep their television screens dark pending a check on possible radioactivity.

The warning came Friday from Surgeon General William H. Stewart, who said a painstaking nationwide search by General Electric had failed to turn up the 9,000 sets.

That's about one-tenth of the television sets the company feared might be emitting potentially harmful X-rays from certain tubes.

Even if the sets are issuing such rays, the extent of the harm they could cause was not precisely known.

Dr. Stewart described such rays as "a potential hazard to human health." A Public Health Service spokesman said later he saw no need for any owners of one of the sets to consult a doctor.

A GE spokesman said the color sets involved have 18-, 20-, 22- and 23-inch screens.

The tubes involved were identified by the numbers 6EF4 and 6LO6.

Owners of such sets were urged to notify GE dealers or service centers or state or local health departments before using them.

In Syracuse, N.Y., a GE spokesman said the sets involved "have a blue fine tune gauge above the control knobs and have on the back of the set either a serial number sticker beginning with OA or OD or no serial number at all."

"Receivers which already have been modified have a red and white label pasted on the back covering regulator tube replacement."

Eisenhower Calls for War Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says it is time for Congress to decide whether to formally declare war against North Vietnam.

The five-star general also called for an end to what he termed "a war of gradualism" in Vietnam and said the conflict deserves top priority to insure an allied victory.

Eisenhower's views were published Friday in the Republican Congressional Committee Newsletter. They were given last Saturday in reply to questions put to him by 34 freshmen GOP representatives at his Gettysburg, Pa., home.

Eisenhower approved use of his comments in paraphrased form.

Questioned about a declaration of war, his paraphrased reply was: "With 450,000 U.S. troops now in Vietnam, it is time that Congress decided whether or not to declare a state of war exists with North Vietnam."

"Previous congressional resolutions of support provide only limited authority. Although Congress may decide that the previously approved resolution on Vietnam given President Johnson is sufficient, the issue of a declaration of war should at least be put before the Congress for decision."

Lunar Explorer In Moon Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Slowed by a jolting blast from a braking rocket, America's Lunar Explorer satellite swooped into an orbit about the moon today.

The spacecraft, launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, is designed to investigate radiation and other potential hazards to moonbound astronauts.

At 5:19 a.m. today, as Lunar Explorer neared the end of its 225,608 mile earth to moon voyage, a station at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., sent a radio signal to trigger the retrorocket.

600 Communists Slain on Friday

SAIGON (AP) — A series of fierce battles involving American, South Korean and South Vietnamese troops killed nearly 600 Communist soldiers Friday, according to reports today from the combat units.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the savage fighting had ended a two-week lull in the ground war. Action appeared to have tapered off again today, with only scattered contacts reported.

Two American helicopters were shot down over South Vietnam Friday.

Among the Communist dead was a battalion commander cut down by South Vietnamese troops in a fight on the coastal plains northwest of Hue. The Communist battalion of some 500 men lost 216 killed, 15 prisoners, of whom four were women, and 78 weapons left on the bloody field.

The heaviest American action was northeast of Saigon, where an armored column of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment was sweeping a main road through Long Khanh Province.

Viet Cong guerrillas set up an ambush as the column came up the road and a two-hour melee followed. The cavalymen lost 15 dead and 60 wounded. The enemy toll was 90 dead and 26 weapons left on the field.

American casualties throughout the country totaled 37 dead and 158 wounded.

Elements of the South Korean Tiger and White Horse divisions got into battle in coastal Phu Yen Province. Details were temporarily withheld but unofficial reports indicated the Communists lost more than 200 dead.

The U.S. Command announced that two large-scale Marine sweeps have begun in the area around Khe Sanh just below the western edge of the zone. Hand-to-hand fighting was reported in scattered contacts Friday. After one brief fire fight in which the Marines were shelled with 120 rounds of mortar fire the North Vietnamese faded into the jungle leaving 22 dead on the field.

A Marine sweep was reported to have broken up an attempted Communist ambush five miles east of Khe Sanh. A North Vietnamese battalion of about 500 men had dug in along Route 9 below the demilitarized zone.

Bringing up tanks and hurling grenades, the Marines fought for five hours. They lost 16 dead and 39 wounded, and killed 34 Communist soldiers.

The Marines are conducting four major sweeps in their area, which is menaced by three and possibly four North Vietnamese divisions—a force of at least 35,000 by conservative estimate.

U.S. Air Force and Navy pilots were on the alert for a renewal of aerial dogfights over North Vietnam but no engagements were reported today.

In addition to supply targets up and down North Vietnam, major American air strikes were thrown at the Thai Nguyen industrial area and at rail lines connecting Hanoi with Thai Nguyen and with Communist China.

An Algerian court ruled Friday in favor of the Congo's extradition request.

Tshombe was kidnapped and brought to Algiers when his chartered plane was hijacked June 30.

In Washington, an attorney hired by Tshombe's wife appealed in a cable to permit the United Nations to consider Tshombe's case. The lawyer, Luis Kutner, contends that Tshombe has been denied due process of international law.

Apple Creek Hospital Investigation Asked

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—David L. Kessler, assistant state attorney general, has asked a Wayne County judge to start impaneling a special grand jury today to investigate alleged wrongdoing at Apple Creek State Hospital.

Kessler, who said he was acting under a 12-year-old law covering conspiracy, made the request Friday of Common Pleas Judge Adrian W. Miller.

Guardsmen Patrol City's North Side

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)

— Hundreds of National Guardsmen brought a tense peace today to the city's North Side Negro area hit by two successive nights of violence.

Two fires broke out at a Catholic church and school Friday night, however, and the fire department said an arsonist had touched them off.

In adjacent St. Paul, police reported that two gasoline-filled bottles were ignited and thrown into a street in the Negro area of Selby Avenue and Dale Street. A few rocks were tossed by a small crowd that gathered.

Some 650 National Guardsmen, 400 of them in Minneapolis and the others in St. Paul, halted most of the fire-starting, rock-throwing and car-tipping of Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Gov. Harold LeVander, acting at the request of Minneapolis Mayor Arthur Naftalin, called out the guard Friday morning. The governor vowed that "rampant lawlessness and bloodshed will not be allowed" in any city of the state.

Minneapolis fire officials said two fires broke out in St. Joseph's Catholic church at either end of a basement tunnel connecting the church and adjacent school.

The blazes were brought under control within an hour but smoke and water damage was extensive.

The old church and school are about a half mile from where the National Guard and scores of policemen were posted along Plymouth Avenue.

Of Minneapolis' 483,000 population about 3 per cent are Negroes. Many are concentrated into semislum sections of the North Side, although there are no row house tenements. Interspersed with the old frame homes on Plymouth Avenue are small commercial shops like drug stores, cafes, cleaning shops and food and hardware stores. The area is two miles northwest of the downtown section.

Negro spokesmen link poor living conditions and alleged lack of job opportunities to the outbreak.

Plain Dealer Fails To Publish Saturday

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Plain Dealer did not publish Saturday morning because of a union dispute. It was the first time the newspaper missed publication since a 129-day strike in 1962-63.

A statement by F. William Dugan, vice president and company general manager, said the reason was an "objection to the dismissal of an assistant chapel chairman in the composing room" by members of Local 53, International Typographical Union.

Hula Hoops Back Again, With Sound Effects Too

NEW YORK (AP) — The hula hoop, which sent the nation reeling nine summers ago, is back—this time with sound to match the gyrations.

"It has been fantastic," said a toy salesman in New York. "It's a whole new generation of kids. They never have seen them before."

The Toy Manufacturers of America, Inc., donated hundreds of new toys for a play-in in Central Park this summer, and it turned into a hoop-in.

Children passed up war toys—and even a swimming pool—to swish the yellow and red plastic hoops around-around their waists, around their hips, around their necks.

The new hoops have small particles like BB's rattling around inside, giving them a shoop-shoop sound when the backfield is in motion.

They are made by a California toy company, Wham-O Manufacturing Co. of San Gabriel, which hopes to sell five million this year.

The last time around, dozens of companies leaped in to make them, swamping the country with hoops, cutting prices, and leaving stores with thousands of hoops to use as backyard fences.

This time Wham-O has a patent, and threatens legal action against any intruders.

It tested the new shoop-shoop hoops at a chain of department stores in Miami, and sold 14,000 in the first two months. In Shreveport, La., one store ordered 4,200 in less than one month. So the company decided to bring the hoops back nationally.

which found the opposing sides using weapons made in and sold by the United States.

Noting the Soviet Union so far has spurned U.S. proposals for an agreement to hold down Middle East arms deliveries, State Department officials said Friday publication of U.S. shipments now is being considered.

Union Officers Charged with Funds Misuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers says two of its officials squandered $141,747 in union funds, charging it off to everything from a $3 bar bill to $27,000 worth of turkeys.

Investigators appointed by union President Paul Jennings leveled the charges at Milton Weihrach and Joseph Iozzi, two of Jennings' staunchest allies in his bitter 1965 election campaign against James B. Carey.

Iozzi denied the charges. Weihrach said he would reply in detail later.

The investigators said Weihrach and Iozzi spent the money over five years on "strike assistance" never received by strikers, salary advances never repaid, unauthorized trips to Miami Beach, liquor, bars, restaurants, racetracks, a $55.71 pipe and a $350 color television set for Weihrach's New Jersey office.

Iozzi, in a telephone interview, said the money went for Jennings' election campaign.

"I absolutely deny that union funds were used for anything other than union purposes and I condemn the members of the investigating committee who are on the international payroll of Paul Jennings," said Iozzi.

Powell Doesn't Come to New York

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell kept a lot of people waiting for him at the black power conference in Newark, N.J., and at Kennedy Airport in New York. He did not show up, and he did not send his regrets.

The ousted congressman from Harlem called a news conference today at his tiny island retreat in the British Bahamas.

Powell also stood up a delegation from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Friday who said in New York they had arranged for Powell to surrender for arrest to New York County Sheriff John J. McCloskey.

Powell's troubles in his constituency stem from a 1963 libel judgment against the congressman by Esther James, a widow whom Powell called a "bag woman" — a graft collector for crooked police.

GE Can't Find 9,000 Harmful Color TV Sets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 9,000 color television set owners and their families may be exposed to harmful radioactive rays from their sets, says the government.

It urged the unknown owners of the large-screen color consoles and table models manufactured by the General Electric Co. and sold between Sept. 1, 1966 and May 31, 1967 to pull the plugs and keep their television screens dark pending a check on possible radioactivity.

The warning came Friday from Surgeon General William H. Stewart, who said a painstaking nationwide search by General Electric had failed to turn up the 9,000 sets.

That's about one-tenth of the television sets the company feared might be emitting potentially harmful X-rays from certain tubes.

Even if the sets are issuing such rays, the extent of the harm they could cause was not precisely known.

Dr. Stewart described such rays as "a potential hazard to human health." A Public Health Service spokesman said later he saw no need for any owners of one of the sets to consult a doctor.

A GE spokesman said the color sets involved have 18-, 20-, 22- and 23-inch screens.

The tubes involved were identified by the numbers 6EF4 and 6L06.

Owners of such sets were urged to notify GE dealers or service centers or state or local health departments before using them.

In Syracuse, N.Y., a GE spokesman said the sets involved "have a blue fine tune gauge above the control knobs and have on the back of the set either a serial number sticker beginning with OA or OD or no serial number at all."

"Receivers which already have been modified have a red and white label pasted on the back covering regulator tube replacement."

Eisenhower Calls for War Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says it is time for Congress to decide whether to formally declare war against North Vietnam.

The five-star general also called for an end to what he termed "a war of gradualism" in Vietnam and said the conflict deserves top priority to insure an allied victory.

Eisenhower's views were published Friday in the Republican Congressional Committee Newsletter. They were given last Saturday in reply to questions put to him by 34 freshmen GOP representatives at his Gettysburg, Pa., home.

Eisenhower approved use of his comments in paraphrased form.

Questioned about a declaration of war, his paraphrased reply was: "With 450,000 U.S. troops now in Vietnam, it is time that Congress decided whether or not to declare a state of war exists with North Vietnam."

"Previous congressional resolutions of support provide only limited authority. Although Congress may decide that the previously approved resolution on Vietnam given President Johnson is sufficient, the issue of a declaration of war should at least be put before the Congress for decision."

Lunar Explorer In Moon Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Slowed by a jolting blast from a braking rocket, America's Lunar Explorer satellite swooped into an orbit about the moon today.

The spacecraft, launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, is designed to investigate radiation and other potential hazards to moonbound astronauts.

At 5:19 a.m. today, as Lunar Explorer neared the end of its 225,608 mile earth to moon voyage, a station at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., sent a radio signal to trigger the retrorocket.

Tense Lull Holds In Minneapolis

600 Communists Slain on Friday

SAIGON (AP) — A series of fierce battles involving American, South Korean and South Vietnamese troops killed nearly 600 Communist soldiers Friday, according to reports today from the combat units.

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the savage fighting had ended a two-week lull in the ground war. Action appeared to have tapered off again today, with only scattered contacts reported.

Two American helicopters were shot down over South Vietnam Friday.

Among the Communist dead was a battalion commander cut down by South Vietnamese troops in a fight on the coastal plains northwest of Hue. The Communist battalion of some 500 men lost 216 killed, 15 prisoners, of whom four were women, and 78 weapons left on the bloody field.

The heaviest American action was northeast of Saigon, where an armored column of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment was sweeping a main road through Long Khanh Province.

Viet Cong guerrillas set up an ambush as the column came up the road and a two-hour melee followed.

Tshombe Will Be Spirited Away To Congo Death

ALGIERS (AP) — Former Congo Premier Moise Tshombe will be extradited secretly from an Algerian military stockade to the Congo, where he faces a death sentence for treason, sources indicated today.

Algerian authorities said Friday they consider it possible white mercenaries loyal to Tshombe might try to rescue him.

An Algerian court ruled Friday in favor of the Congo's extradition request.

Tshombe was kidnapped and brought to Algiers when his chartered plane was hijacked June 30.

In Washington, an attorney hired by Tshombe's wife appealed in a cable to permit the United Nations to consider Tshombe's case. The lawyer, Luis Kutner, contends that Tshombe has been denied due process of international law.

Apple Creek Hospital Investigation Asked

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—David L. Kessler, assistant state attorney general, has asked a Wayne County judge to start impaneling a special grand jury today to investigate alleged wrongdoing at Apple Creek State Hospital.

Kessler, who said he was acting under a 12-year-old law covering conspiracy, made the request Friday of Common Pleas Judge Adrian W. Miller.

Guardsmen Patrol City's North Side

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Hundreds of National Guardsmen brought a tense peace today to the city's North Side Negro area hit by two successive nights of violence.

Two fires broke out at a Catholic church and school Friday night, however, and the fire department said an arsonist had touched them off.

In adjacent St. Paul, police reported that two gasoline-filled bottles were ignited and thrown into a street in the Negro area of Selby Avenue and Dale Street. A few rocks were tossed by a small crowd that gathered.

Some 650 National Guardsmen, 400 of them in Minneapolis and the others in St. Paul, halted most of the fire-starting, rock-throwing and car-tipping of Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Gov. Harold LeVander, acting at the request of Minneapolis Mayor Arthur Naftalin, called out the guard Friday morning. The governor vowed that "rampant lawlessness and bloodshed will not be allowed" in any city of the state.

Minneapolis fire officials said two fires broke out in St. Joseph's Catholic church at either end of a basement tunnel connecting the church and adjacent school.

The blazes were brought under control within an hour but smoke and water damage was extensive.

The old church and school are about a half mile from where the National Guard and scores of policemen were posted along Plymouth Avenue.

Of Minneapolis' 483,000 population about 3 per cent are Negroes. Many are concentrated into semislum sections of the North Side, although there are no row house tenements. Interspersed with the old frame homes on Plymouth Avenue are small commercial shops like drug stores, cafes, cleaning shops and food and hardware stores. The area is two miles northwest of the downtown section.

Negro spokesmen link poor living conditions and alleged lack of job opportunities to the outbreak.

Plain Dealer Fails To Publish Saturday

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Plain Dealer did not publish Saturday morning because of a union dispute. It was the first time the newspaper missed publication since a 129-day strike in 1962-63.

A statement by F. William Dugan, vice president and company general manager, said the reason was an "objection to the dismissal of an assistant chapel chairman in the composing room" by members of Local 53, International Typographical Union.

Hula Hoops Back Again, With Sound Effects Too

NEW YORK (AP) — The hula hoop, which sent the nation reeling nine summers ago, is back—this time with sound to match the gyrations.

"It has been fantastic," said a toy salesman in New York. "It's a whole new generation of kids. They never have seen them before."

The Toy Manufacturers of America, Inc., donated hundreds of new toys for a play-in in Central Park this summer, and it turned into a hoop-in.

Children passed up war toys—and even a swimming pool—to swish the yellow and red plastic hoops around-around their waists, around their hips, around their necks.

The new hoops have small particles like BB's rattling around inside, giving them a shoop-shoop sound when the backfield is in motion.

They are made by a California toy company, Wham-O Manufacturing Co. of San Gabriel, which hopes to sell five million this year.

The last time around, dozens of companies leaped in to make them, swamping the country with hoops, cutting prices, and leaving stores with thousands of hoops to use as backyard fences.

This time Wham-O has a patent, and threatens legal action against any intruders.

It tested the new shoop-shoop hoops at a chain of department stores in Miami, and sold 14,000 in the first two months. In Shreveport, La., one store ordered 4,200 in less than one month. So the company decided to bring the hoops back nationally.

HIGH PRODUCER — Larry, Barbara and Lawrence Carter admire 3-year-old "Bessie" cow (registered name of Ann Pabst Aristocrat) for her high production in June. Bessie produced 2960 pounds of milk and 118 pounds of butterfat for the month of June. This is an outstanding average of 98.6 pounds of milk daily.

Carter-Kreisel Cows Produce County Record Yield in June

The recent DHIA production figures indicate the Lawrence Carter, Ed Kreisel dairy herd, of Route 2, Circleville, has achieved the highest production in June for Pickaway County dairy herds.

The Carter-Kreisel herd of 26 Holstein cows produced an average of 1590 pounds of milk and 62 pounds of butterfat per cow for the month.

The 25 cow Holstein herd of William Ehman of Scioto Twp. was second high for June with 1479 pounds of milk and 53.2 pounds of butterfat. The Robert Barnes herd of Williamsport was third with 1237 pounds of milk and 52.8 pounds of butterfat. The Karl Braskett herd of Scioto Twp. was fourth. The high individual cow for June was the "Bessie" cow belonging to Carter and Kreisel. This cow produced 2960 pounds of milk and 118 pounds of butterfat. The next high cow for June was Horst and Dumm's no. 51 cow with 2550 pounds of milk and 115 pounds of butterfat. Other cows in the order of their production were: Don Schleich's Bobby cow, Dale Gifford's no. 28 cow, and Hines and Schneider's Fonda cow.

The Pickaway County DHIA Supervisor is Winfred Bidwell, Route 1, Williamsport. Herd owners that would like to participate in the production testing program may contact Winfred or the County Extension Office.

Plant Analysis Time Is Here

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Modern farmers have large capital investments in their operations, making it much more necessary to strive for maximum return. Progressive growers are always looking for new and better ways to improve the use of fertilizers and at the same time to produce crops with the highest possible quality and yields.

For many years now farmers have been using soil testing as a means for determining soil needs for potential crop yields. These soil tests have not given the complete story. In recent years researchers have been analyzing plants to determine their composition. The scientists have studied these findings as a possible basis for explaining difference in plant growth. This has been a long and difficult process since the composition of the leaves, stems and other plant parts vary greatly depending upon where they were taken from the plants.

The present plant analysis program as developed by the Ohio Agricultural Extension Service and the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center is designed to supplement soil testing as a means of ascertaining those fertilizer elements which are in deficient or excess supply. The plant analysis will provide information to enable the farmer to apply elements which are short in supply. This analysis service will permit more economical and efficient use of fertilizer materials. Through plant analysis excessive additions of various essential elements can be avoided.

The proper time for sampling and analyzing field corn is a early tasseling time. There should be a leaf taken from the

Maize Dwarf Mosaic Makes Appearance in Corn Crop

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Maize Dwarf Mosaic (MDM) has made its 1967 appearance in Pickaway County corn fields. Symptoms of this corn disease vary considerably, even in corn plants of the same hybrid in the same field. One plant may show symptoms early in the season and another not until after pollination.

Diseased plants usually appear in fields as spots or centers. Such spots frequently, but not always, appear first along one side or end of a particular field. As the season progresses, these diseased areas may enlarge until all plants in a field are affected.

MDM was first found in Scioto River bottom lands in southern Ohio in 1962. Since that time the disease has been detected in California, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Virginia, and Missouri. It may be present in a number of other states.

A number of the symptoms of this disease are similar to those of corn stunt. One of the earliest symptoms is a shortening of upper internodes that imparts a "feather-duster" appearance to the plant. Another early symptom is a finely stippled mottle or mosaic of light and dark green on the youngest leaves. As plants mature, the Mosaic disappears and leaves become yellowish green and frequently show blotches or streaks of red. Severely infected plants are barren or show poor seed set. Symptoms are most severe on plants infected early; those infected at silking time or later may appear nearly normal.

MDM can be mechanically transmitted by simply rubbing virus-containing juice into healthy tissue. The virus may also be transmitted by the corn leaf aphid, melon aphid, green peach aphid, and the apple grain aphid. Other insects may be found that act as vectors.

The virus has a wide host range among wild and cultivated grasses. Of these, johnsongrass is important because its perennial habit permits the virus to overwinter in its underground stems. Thus, it serves as a reservoir from which insect vectors can acquire the virus in early summer and spread it to healthy corn. Incidences of MDM can almost be limited to fields infested with johnsongrass.

Preliminary observations indicate that some resistance exists in corn inbreds and hybrids, and it is through use of such genetic resistance that control of the disease will probably be accomplished. Farmers that feel they may have a MDM problem should contact the County Extension Office.

MDM HERE — Maize Dwarf Mosaic (MDM) has made its appearance in Pickaway County corn fields. This disease is first noticeable by the shortened internodes, as pointed out in the above picture by County Agent George Hamrick, causing a bunching or rosette effect of the upper leaves. Later symptoms will be a yellowing mosaic effect of the leaves and later yet many of the leaves will become red.

HIGH PRODUCER — Larry, Barbara and Lawrence Carter admire 3-year-old "Bessie" cow (registered name of Ann Pabst Aristocrat) for her high production in June. Bessie produced 2960 pounds of milk and 118 pounds of butterfat for the month of June. This is an outstanding average of 98.6 pounds of milk daily.

Carter-Kreisel Cows Produce County Record Yield in June

The recent DHIA production figures indicate the Lawrence Carter, Ed Kreisel dairy herd, of Route 2, Circleville, has achieved the highest production in June for Pickaway County dairy herds.

The Carter-Kreisel herd of 26 Holstein cows produced an average of 1590 pounds of milk and 62 pounds of butterfat per cow for the month.

The 25 cow Holstein herd of William Ehmman of Scioto Twp. was second high for June with 1479 pounds of milk and 53.2 pounds of butterfat. The Robert Barnes herd of Williamsport was third with 1257 pounds of milk and 52.8 pounds of butterfat. The Karl Braskett herd of Scioto Twp. was fourth.

The high individual cow for June was the "Bessie" cow belonging to Carter and Kreisel. This cow produced 2960 pounds of milk and 118 pounds of butterfat. The next high cow for June was Horst and Dunn's no. 51 cow with 2550 pounds of milk and 115 pounds of butterfat. Other cows in the order of their production were: Don Schleich's Bobby cow, Dale Gifford's no. 28 cow, and Hines and Schneider's Fonda cow.

The Pickaway County DHIA Supervisor is Winfred Bidwell, Route 1, Williamsport. Herd owners that would like to participate in the production testing program may contact Winfred or the County Extension Office.

Plant Analysis Time Is Here

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Modern farmers have large capital investments in their operations, making it much more necessary to strive for maximum return. Progressive growers are always looking for new and better ways to improve the use of fertilizers and at the same time to produce crops with the highest possible quality and yields.

For many years now farmers have been using soil testing as a means for determining soil needs for potential crop yields. These soil tests have not given the complete story. In recent years researchers have been analyzing plants to determine their composition. The scientists have studied these findings as a possible basis for explaining difference in plant growth. This has been a long and difficult process since the composition of the leaves, stems and other plant parts vary greatly depending upon where they were taken from the plants.

The present plant analysis program as developed by the Ohio Agricultural Extension Service and the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center is designed to supplement soil testing as a means of ascertaining those fertilizer elements which are in deficient or excess supply. The plant analysis will provide information to enable the farmer to apply elements which are short in supply. This analysis service will permit more economical and efficient use of fertilizer materials. Through plant analysis excessive additions of various essential elements can be avoided.

The proper time for sampling and analyzing field corn is a early tasseling time. There should be a leaf taken from the

Maize Dwarf Mosaic Makes Appearance in Corn Crop

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Maize Dwarf Mosaic (MDM) has made its 1967 appearance in Pickaway County corn fields. Symptoms of this corn disease vary considerably, even in corn plants of the same hybrid in the same field. One plant may show symptoms early in the season and another not until after pollination.

Diseased plants usually appear in fields as spots or centers. Such spots frequently, but not always, appear first along one side or end of a particular field. As the season progresses, these diseased areas may enlarge until all plants in a field are affected.

MDM was first found in Scioto River bottom lands in southern Ohio in 1962. Since that time the disease has been detected in California, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Virginia, and Missouri. It may be present in a number of other states.

A number of the symptoms of this disease are similar to those of corn stunt. One of the earliest symptoms is a shortening of upper internodes that imparts a "feather-duster" appearance to the plant. Another early symptom is a finely stippled mottle or mosaic of light and dark green on the youngest leaves. As plants mature, the Mosaic disappears and leaves become yellowish green and frequently show blotches or streaks of red. Severely infected plants are barren or show poor seed set. Symptoms are most severe on plants infected early; those infected at silking time or later may appear nearly normal.

MDM can be mechanically transmitted by simply rubbing virus-containing juice into healthy tissue. The virus may also be transmitted by the corn leaf aphid, melon aphid, green peach aphid, and the apple grain aphid. Other insects may be found that act as vectors.

The virus has a wide host range among wild and cultivated grasses. Of these, johnsongrass is important because its perennial habit permits the virus to overwinter in its underground stems. Thus, it serves as a reservoir from which insect vectors can acquire the virus in early summer and spread it to healthy corn. Incidences of MDM can almost be limited to fields infested with johnsongrass.

This disease is first noticeable by the shortened internodes, as pointed out in the above picture by County Agent George Hamrick, causing a bunching or rosette effect of the upper leaves. # LE Student Wins Safety Speech Test

County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

The recent Junior 4-H Safety Speaking Contest was won by Vanessa Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills, Route 4, Circleville. Vanessa is a member of the Logan Elm Sunny Sewers 4-H club.

The runner-up in this contest was Amy Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Curtis, 508 Plaza Drive, Circleville. Amy is a member of the Stir and Chatter Jr. 4-H Club.

Vanessa's winning speech was in the form of a conversation with her friend Amy on the safety practices of swimming. The following is a summary of the winning speech:

"Hi, Amy! Will your parents let you go swimming tomorrow afternoon? Oh, not there. Mother says we can't go swimming where it's not supervised. We will go to the pool. O. K.? See you at 1 p. m. Bye!

"Swimming is a favorite sport of many, yet last year 162 Ohioans lost their lives by drowning. Most of these could have easily been prevented by following a few simple rules.

"One I have already mentioned — children and adult poor swimmers should always swim under adult supervision.

"Never depend upon a tube to aid you in swimming. Learn to swim correctly or stay out of that deep water.

"Watch your step! Never run or play active games near the pool. Someone may slip, hit his head, and fall into the water dazed or unconscious. Never push anyone into the water, swimmer or not.

"Amy and I aren't going until 1 p. m. This is to allow time for our lunches to digest before entering the water. Cramps, making it impossible to swim, often occur if you enter the water too soon after eating. Cramps may also occur if you are overfired or overheated. Don't swim when you are too hot or tired.

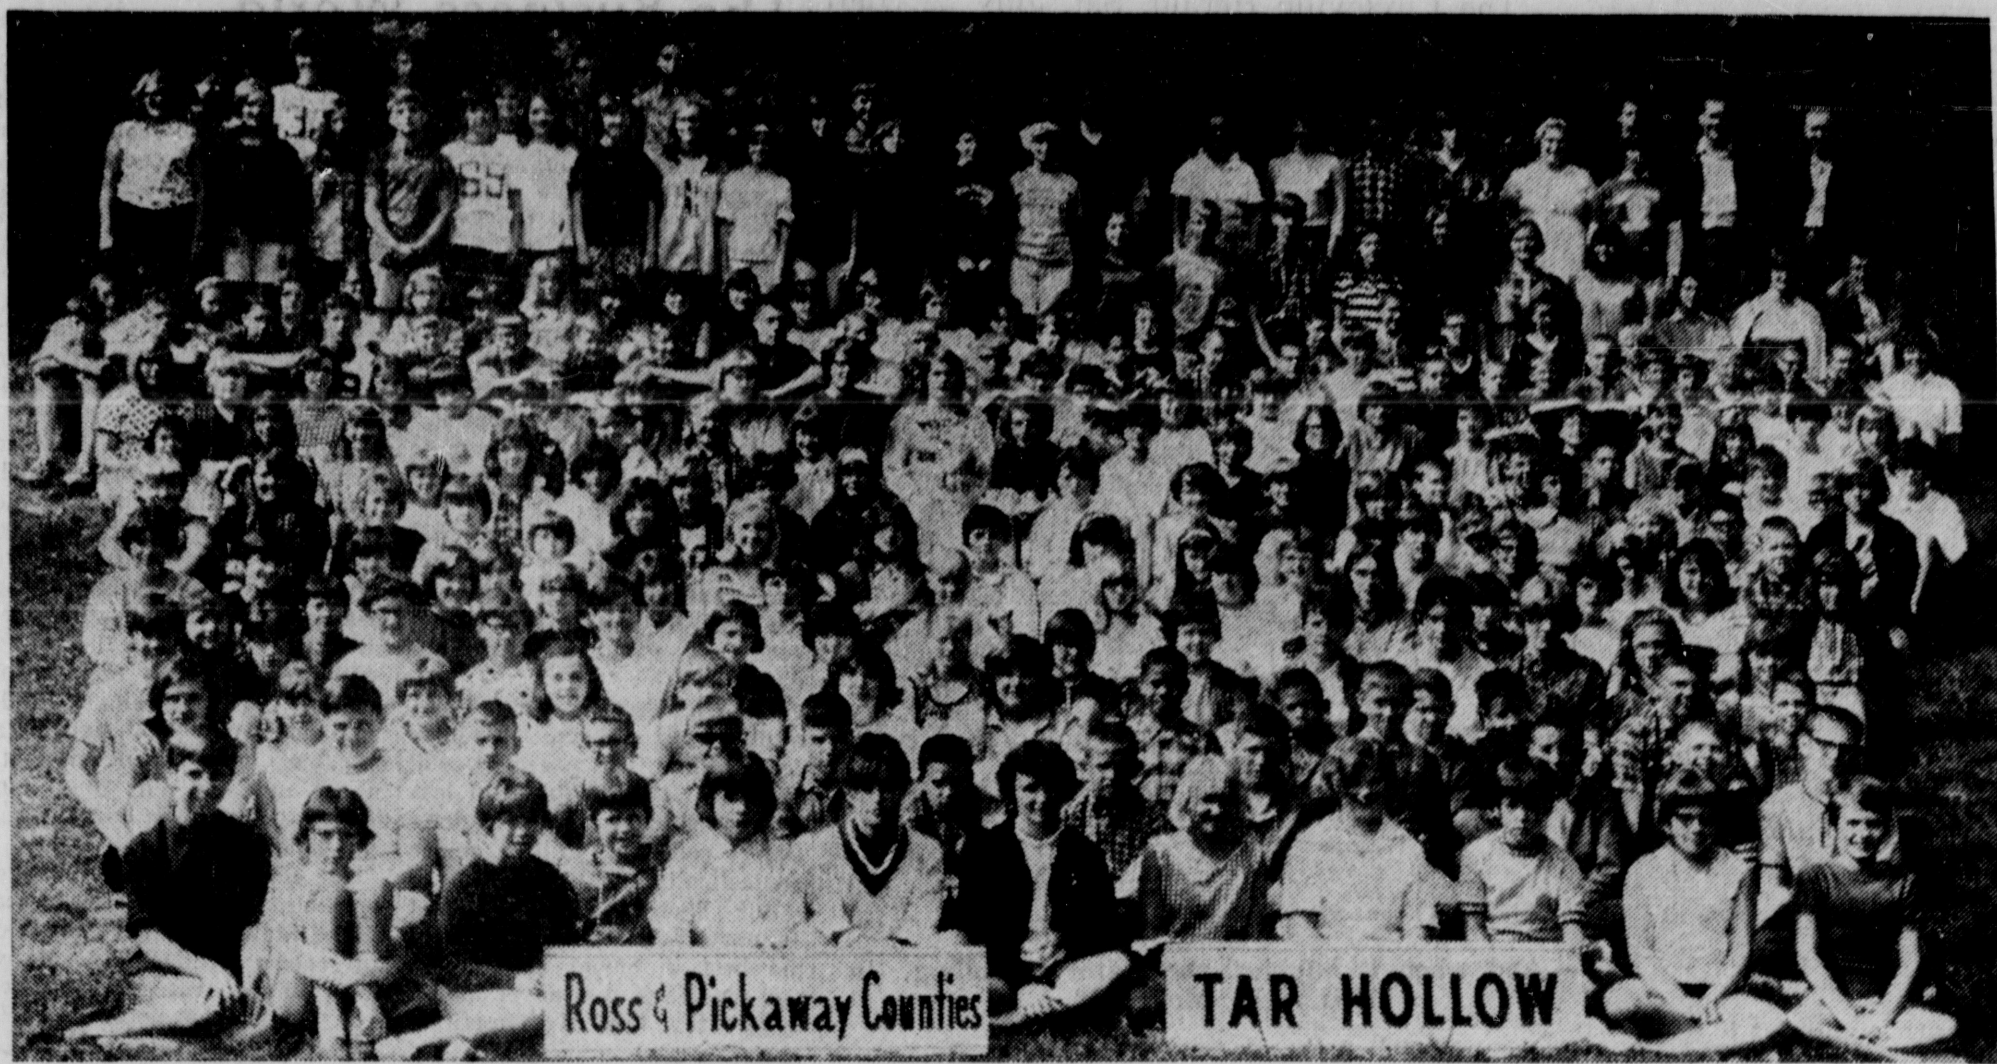

"Check the water. Don't dive in quickly. Very cold water can temporarily stun you. Get into the water slowly and let your body adjust to its temperature.

"Don't swim under a diving board. The diver may not see you and you are asking for injuries to both of you.

"Never dive into strange places. Swim in the water and investigate the conditions of the pool, pond, or lake before you dive.

"Swimming is no sport for stormy weather. When the electrical storm starts, you stop swimming.

"Just as the Red Cross and 4-H swimming programs require buddies and frequent buddy checks, I've asked my friend, Amy, to go with me. Don't swim alone. You and your bud-

Home Agent Tips

By Marjorie Kaiser
Home Economics Agent

When the crowd comes for a cook-out, the time you spend on planning can save time in getting the meal ready. Marian Hermance, extension specialist in institution management at The Ohio State University, suggests that you give special attention to the menu and cooking equipment.

Keep the cook-out menu simple. Plan for fewer kinds of foods in larger amounts — remember those hearty outdoor appetites. Keep the emphasis on "fix - aheads" and foods that can be eaten with your fingers. This might include crisp vegetable relishes, help-yourself appetizers and main dishes, and simple desserts.

You'll need lots of extra grill space if all the food is to be cooked at the same time. You may need to borrow or rent extra grills or construct a simple but ample barbecue of concrete blocks. Large pieces of meat, such as chicken halves or large steaks, take extra space on the grill.

Remember that the fire needs to be started at least a half-hour before cooking time to have steady, uniform heat. The rule — use low to moderate temperatures — applies to outdoor meat cookery as well as that done in the kitchen.

Check your tool list for such items as a poker and shovel to handle hot coals; a long-handled brush to clean the grill.

Every swimmer, skilled and poor alike, should learn the La-noue Method of floatation. This relaxed method based on buoyancy can keep you afloat for over 8 hours. This will give you plenty of time to be rescued, if by any change you should have to be.

"Have fun, but swim safely."

dled sprinkling can to douse flames; long-handled forks, tongs, and swabs; perhaps the folding wire broilers for some types of meat cuts; sharp curving and slicing knives and a cutting board; padded mitts and extra-large pot holders.

Plan for extra refrigeration space, too. To prevent possible food spoilage, keep hot foods very hot and cold foods very cold. Make sure the food you serve family and friends is safe and good to eat.

Like frosting on a cake, decorative touches on clothing and home accessories often make the difference between the distinctive and the ordinary. However, these touches are often neglected simply because they require extra stitching.

Home - sewers will therefore welcome a new type of adhesive - back nylon velvet ribbon that can be permanently bonded to any fabric without sewing. Pressure with a warm iron will attach it in place for charming effects — such as contrasting stripes on skirts, military chevrons on sleeve or pockets, and vertical lines of color on knee socks.

Household articles which can be laundered by machine or hand, may be given infinite variety and beauty with these ribbons. Bedspreads, throw pillow covers, slipcovers, and draperies made of plain fabrics can be individualized by applying self-stick ribbon in wave-scrill designs or in alternate bands of the two widths which are available.

This versatile ribbon comes both as a solid nylon fabric and in two cutout, lace, patterns. The colors are as attractive as their names: candy-apple pink, sea green, and Inca gold to name just a few. When bonded to the fabric, it can "take" machine washing as of-

The club decided to sponsor a card party July 1, at Jackson School. Also the talent contest for the fair was discussed.

Demonstrations were given by Glenna Holbrook on how to set a table, Christine Hansen on how to make a triangular headscarf, Karen Marshall on how to make a tea towel, and Claire Hansen on how to choose your pattern and material.

Refreshments were served by the Steinhausers. The next meeting will be June 24, at the Hansen home.

Children will find it fun to decorate their belongings with another version. This second type of ribbon needs only finger-pressure to attach itself to a headboard, waste basket, or tote bag — or to frame a picture. Errors are easily corrected because it can be pulled off and re-applied. While not literally tubbable, these finger-press-on ribbons can be kept clean by light sponging with "dry" soap or detergent suds — if the articles which they decorate are also safely suds-spongeable.

A tour committee of Cindy Aikson, Pat Schleich, and Kelly Steinhauser was appointed to decide some places for a club tour. Sheila Eitel was chosen to represent the club in the Queen contest. Suzanne Steinhauser is to be in the talent screening contest. Miscellaneous projects were told what they needed to take to the fair.

Demonstrations were given by Pat Schleich on the nutrients in bread, Dawn Bidwell on money management and Pam Schooley on beverages.

Refreshments were served by the Hansens. Project books are to be turned in at the next meeting on July 11.

The ninth meeting of the club was July 11, at the Marshall residence. The 4-H pledge was led by Dolores Karshner and pledges to the flags were led by Karen Marshall. The club decided to go on their tour to a bakery and see the movie "Thoroughly Modern Millie". The club decided to donate $10 to the Red Cross for servicemen packages.

Demonstrations were given by Kelly Steinhauser on how to use bias binding and Sally Minor on how to put in a zipper.

Refreshments were served by the Marshalls.

The next meeting is July 25 at the Minor home. Projects are to be done and brought to this meeting.

A date was set for the cooking girls to meet and finish up their cooking projects.

LE Student Wins Safety Speech Test

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

The recent Junior 4-H Safety Speaking Contest was won by Vanessa Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mills, Route 4, Circleville. Vanessa is a member of the Logan Elm Sunny Sewers 4-H club.

The runner-up in this contest was Amy Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Curtis, 508 Plaza Drive, Circleville. Amy is a member of the Stir and Chatter Jr. 4-H Club.

Vanessa's winning speech was in the form of a conversation with her friend Amy on the safety practices of swimming. The following is a summary of the winning speech:

"Hi, Amy! Will your parents let you go swimming tomorrow afternoon? Oh, not there. Mother says we can't go swimming where it's not supervised. We will go to the pool. O. K.? See you at 1 p. m. Bye!

"Swimming is a favorite sport of many, yet last year 162 Ohioans lost their lives by drowning. Most of these could have easily been prevented by following a few simple rules.

"One I have already mentioned — children and adult poor swimmers should always swim under adult supervision.

"Never depend upon a tube to aid you in swimming. Learn to swim correctly or stay out of that deep water.

"Watch your step! Never run or play active games near the pool. Someone may slip, hit his head, and fall into the water dazed or unconscious. Never push anyone into the water, swimmer or not.

"Amy and I aren't going until 1 p. m. This is to allow time for our lunches to digest before entering the water. Cramps, making it impossible to swim, often occur if you enter the water too soon after eating. Cramps may also occur if you are overtired or overheated. Don't swim when you are too hot or tired.

"Check the water. Don't dive in quickly. Very cold water can temporarily stun you. Get into the water slowly and let your body adjust to its temperature.

"Don't swim under a diving board. The diver may not see you and you are asking for injuries to both of you.

"Never dive into strange places. Swim in the water and investigate the conditions of the pool, pond, or lake before you dive.

"Swimming is no sport for stormy weather. When the electrical storm starts, you stop swimming.

"Just as the Red Cross and 4-H swimming programs require buddies and frequent buddy checks, I've asked my friend, Amy, to go with me. Don't swim alone. You and your bud-

Home Agent Tips

By Marjorie Kaiser
Home Economics Agent

When the crowd comes for a cook-out, the time you spend on planning can save time in getting the meal ready. Marian Hermance, extension specialist in institution management at The Ohio State University, suggests that you give special attention to the menu and cooking equipment.

Keep the cook-out menu simple. Plan for fewer kinds of foods in larger amounts — remember those hearty outdoor appetites. Keep the emphasis on "fix-a-heads" and foods that can be eaten with your fingers. This might include crisp vegetable relishes, help-yourself appetizers and main dishes, and simple desserts.

You'll need lots of extra grill space if all the food is to be cooked at the same time. You may need to borrow or rent extra grills or construct a simple but ample barbecue of concrete blocks. Large pieces of meat, such as chicken halves or large steaks, take extra space on the grill.

Remember that the fire needs to be started at least a half-hour before cooking time to have steady, uniform heat. The rule — use low to moderate temperatures — applies to outdoor meat cookery as well as that done in the kitchen.

Check your tool list for such things as a poker and shovel to handle hot coals; a long-handled spatula should check each other often. This will keep you alert to any dangers before they become serious.

"Every swimmer, skilled and poor alike, should learn the Lanoie Method of floatation. This relaxed method based on buoyancy can keep you afloat for over 8 hours. This will give you plenty of time to be rescued, if by any change you should have to be.

"Have fun, but swim safely."

died sprinkling can to douse flames; long-handled forks, tongs, and swabs; perhaps the folding wire broilers for some types of meat cuts; sharp curving and slicing knives and a cutting board; padded mitts and extra-large pot holders.

Plan for extra refrigeration space, too. To prevent possible food spoilage, keep hot foods very hot and cold foods very cold. Make sure the food you serve family and friends is safe and good to eat.

Like frosting on a cake, decorative touches on clothing and home accessories often make the difference between the distinctive and the ordinary. However, these touches are often neglected simply because they require extra stitching.

Home — sewers will therefore welcome a new type of adhesive — back nylon velvet ribbon that can be permanently bonded to any fabric without sewing. Pressure with a warm iron will attach it in place for charming effects — such as contrasting stripes on skirts, military chevrons on sleeve or pockets, and vertical lines of color on knee socks.

Household articles which can be laundered by machine or hand, may be given infinite variety and beauty with these ribbons. Bedspreads, throw pillow covers, slipcovers, and draperies made of plain fabrics can be individualized by applying self-stick ribbon in wave-scrunch designs or in alternate bands of the two widths which are available.

This versatile ribbon comes both as a solid nylon fabric and in two cutouts, lacy, patterns. The colors are as attractive as their names: candy-apple pink, sea green, and Inca gold to name just a few. When bonded to the fabric, it can "take" machine washing as of-

The seventh meeting of the club was held June 13, at the Steinhauser residence. The 4-H pledge was led by Teresa Conley and the pledge to the flag by Tanis Galloway. Roll call was answered by telling projects and what was being taken to the fair.

The club decided to sponsor a card party July 1, at Jackson School. Also the talent contest for the fair was discussed.

Demonstrations were given by Glenna Holbrook on how to set a table, Christine Hansen on how to make a triangular headscarf, Karen Marshall on how to make a tea towel, and Claire Hansen on how to choose your pattern and material.

Refreshments were served by the Steinhausers. The next meeting will be June 24, at the Hansen home.

The eighth meeting of the club was held June 27 at the Hansen residence. The pledges were led by Kelly Steinhauser and Christine Hansen. Donations were discussed for the July 1 card party.

ten as required by the articles it adorns.

Children will find it fun to decorate their belongings with another version. This second type of ribbon needs only finger-pressure to attach itself to a headboard, waste basket, or tote bag — or to frame a picture. Errors are easily corrected because it can be pulled off and re-applied. While not literally tubbable, these finger-pressure ribbons can be kept clean by light sponging with "dry" soap or detergent suds — if the articles which they decorate are also safely suds-spongeable.

4 - H Club News

A tour committee of Cindy Aki-son, Pat Schleich, and Kelly Steinhauser was appointed to decide some places for a club tour. Sheila Eitel was chosen to represent the club in the Queen contest. Suzanne Steinhauser is to be in the talent screening contest. Miscellaneous projects were told what they needed to take to the fair.

Demonstrations were given by Pat Schleich on the nutrients in bread, Dawn Bidwell on money management and Pam Schooley on beverages.

Refreshments were served by the Hansens. Project books are to be turned in at the next meeting on July 11.

The ninth meeting of the club was July 11, at the Marshall residence. The 4-H pledge was led by Dolores Karshner and pledges to the flags were led by Karen Marshall. The club decided to go on their tour to a bakery and see the movie "Thoroughly Modern Millie". The club decided to donate $10 to the Red Cross for servicemen packages.

Demonstrations were given by Kelly Steinhauser on how to use bias binding and Sally Minor on how to put in a zipper.

Refreshments were served by the Marshalls.

The next meeting is July 25 at the Minor home. Projects are to be done and brought to this meeting.

Duvall Busy Fingers

The seventh meeting of the Duvall Busy Fingers was held recently at the home of Mrs. Frank Baum. Roll call was answered by what you hated most about school.

Committees were chosen for the club tour and picnic. Mrs. Baum handed out pamphlets on cooking and sewing and gave the club members information on their projects for the fair.

A date was set for the cooking girls to meet and finish up their cooking projects.

Andy Ward and Bob Featheringham talked to the club about the procedures that they go through in receiving a fire call. They told the club simple safety rules to follow around the house. The trucks and equipment used was shown to the club.

Refreshments were served to all members.

Darby Cooks of Tomorrow

The Darby Cooks of Tomorrow met Wednesday, July 12, 1967. The club worked on project books and what things they would need for the fair.

Computers have been around long enough that few persons regard the computer technique as a new art. But members of the scientific community look upon the computer as an infant which has in no way reached its potential.

Dr. Harrison Shull, professor of chemistry at Indiana University, had a few words to say recently about the computer of the future. It won't be human, but its uncanny responses and reactions will make it almost seem so.

Until now computers have been used largely to solve complex mathematical problems. As Dr. Shull puts it, "the computer has been confined to the role of glorified desk calculator." Excellent mathematicians they are, but the scientist who works with a computer is impatient to harness the full capacity of the machine to the myriad research chores which must precede any scientific advance.

A computer which is linked directly with instruments and other laboratory devices not only can receive and assimilate information but can be programmed to react in a number of different ways, depending upon the information received. It can also be used to give the instruments new instructions.

From this will emerge a more rapid pace of technological advancement. Jobs which formerly required years will take only weeks to finish. Discoveries can be utilized immediately instead of wasting much time as at present for word of each innovation to be circulated within the yield of endeavor, with further delays while the mechanics of applying each new discovery are developed.

For Safer Hospitals

A hospital isn't the safest place in the world, according to a study by two doctors of 240 patients in a North Carolina teaching general hospital during a recent one-month period.

Nearly 20 per cent "suffered some kind of iatrogenic reaction." (Iatrogenic — induced by a physician). These included reactions to drugs; accidents such as falls and errors in medication, and illness brought on by the diagnostic or therapeutic procedures.

Many of the "iatrogenic reactions" were moderate, but "episodes resulting in prolonged hospitalization, permanent disability or death occurred at the rate of one for every 99 patient days."

Findings were reported in the Southern Medical Journal, and reiterated in the Medical World News for July 7. The investigators say the hospital hazards are by no means unique to their institutions.

The fact that this report was compiled by and for doctors is somewhat reassuring, for it indicates that the medical world is concerned about hospital hazards. Concern is not quite enough, however. It is time to take drastic action to make hospitals safe.

Letter to Pavement Plato

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Pavement Plato:

"Everybody has been knocking on women lately, as if to be one were almost against the law.

"All we hear every day is how bad we are. We are accused of pampering ourselves, henpecking our husbands, and spoiling our children.

"Surely we aren't altogether bad. We must have some nice qualities. Why doesn't someone tell us what they like about us for a change? That might even inspire us to try to be better. Modern Eve"

Not a bad idea, Eve. Woman must have some good qualities or she wouldn't have managed to remain the apple of man's eye since the Garden of Eden.

But what are they? It's hard to say. What one man finds appealing in a woman another man may find upsets his digestion.

However, at the risk of being regarded as a traitor in some quarters, here are some of the things I like about women:

Most of them no longer sweep dirt under the living-room rug as they now have vacuum cleaners.

Some of them are fun to walk behind and look at when a fellow doesn't have any big important world problem on his mind.

They may whimper about small annoyances but they are as strong as granite under real adversity.

If a big lie is needed to save a social situation, they can tell one without batting an eye.

Merely by the way they throw the ball they can give a man a vast feeling of superiority.

It is amazing how many things they can keep cooking on a kitchen stove and still manage to get them all done at the same time.

When you take one of them to a restaurant, she can give you sound advice on whether it is better to eat the cantaloupe a la mode with a fork or a spoon.

If your child gets a runny nose, your wife will generally wipe it rather than ask you to. You simply can't beat them for many small chores like this around the house.

A homely man becomes bitter and full of secret self-pity about his homeliness, but a homely woman is always sure that there is something beautiful about her. And this is true.

Woman is a wiser animal than man. As a man becomes more knowledgeable through experience, he comes to distrust his instincts. A woman rarely does. She retains a blind faith in her instinctual wisdom, which she calls intuition, and there are occasions in life when this gift of nature is a better guide than the precepts taught by experience.

When it comes to getting a button sewed on, there is nothing like a dame.

They tend to be forgiving. No matter how shabbily a man has treated a woman, if she loves him he can melt her anger into fondness with the surprise gift of a handful of flowers — or even a mink coat.

Women have inherent nobility and grace and self-respect. It is only the standards they set and cling to that keeps our civilization, sorry as it is, from degenerating into a worse jungle.

Finally, there is nothing finer to come home to and see, shining in warm loveliness across a candlelit dinner table, than a woman.

Well, there I've said it. Those are a few of the things men like about women.

Hat's They'll Do It Every Time

Laff-A-Day

—And when it bubbles, the water is boiling. Is that right, Mother?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE MESS SERGEANT was just about fed up with all the complaints registered about the bread he was serving his outfit. "What are you birds squawking about?" he demanded. "If Washington had had that bread at Valley Forge he'd have given thanks to the Lord for it." "That's entirely possible," agreed one perky young private. "It was fresh then."

Charles Rice tells about an embarrassing moment in the career of a magician named Blackstone, a headliner in Keith vaudeville not so many years ago. Blackstone, on the day in question, was doing his stuff at a playhouse in the heart of Chicago's theatrical district. For the climax of his act, he fired three revolver shots, whereupon an accomplice in handcuffs escaped from a locked trunk in mid-stage and made for the wings. While Blackstone exhibited the empty trunk to the befuddled audience, the accomplice was trained to race down the aisle, jangling his manacles, and shouting, "Here I am, Maestro! Here I am!"

This particular day, however, the accomplice went AWOL, and Blackstone had to break in a substitute at the last minute. "When you get off the stage," instructed Blackstone, "run like mad around to the front of the theatre and gallop down the aisle yelling 'Here I am' at the top of your lungs. Now that's not much to ask, is it?"

The substitute agreed it wasn't—particularly with a ten-dollar bonus held out to him. He followed instructions to the letter, his "Here I am" ringing loud and clear. Unfortunately, he had made one slight error, however. He'd taken a wrong turn at the end of the stage-door alley, and ran into the Harris Theatre next door by mistake. His "Here I am" didn't help the second act climax of Ibsen's "Ghosts" one bit. In fact, he lost his job.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A stroke, one of the dreaded and serious causes of long-standing illness, is the result of a hemorrhage, or clot, in one of the larger blood vessels of the brain. When the blood supply and its life-bringing oxygen is interfered with, the brain suffers damage which then affects the rest of the body. The severity of the stroke depends on the size of the artery to the brain that is damaged.

For years research scientists, many under government sponsorship, had been working to reduce the frequency of this condition. A most interesting statistical survey has just been released from Harvard University Medical School which may yet prevent some strokes and spare many lives.

Dr. Ralph S. Paffenbarger, Jr., has studied 855 college-trained patients whose records were easily available. He came to the astonishing conclusion that victims of serious and even fatal strokes had definite characteristics that shed light on the cause.

One hundred and seventy-one of these former college students who had died of strokes were compared with 684 of their surviving classmates. These are some of the important conclusions he came to.

Students who had smoked more than 10 cigarettes a day had twice as many strokes as those who had smoked only a few or none at all. Students who participated in college sports and continued some form of exercise afterwards had fewer strokes than those who did not exercise.

There were other conclusions of a more technical nature like high blood pressure and the general body build that were not under the direct control of any of these people. It was interesting, too, that many of the characteristics of the stroke victims closely paralleled those, in another study, who had had heart attacks.

These are forceful conclusions and should be respected by those who continue to smoke, gain excessive weight and do very little exercise.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sputnik, not the satellite but the Soviet English-language magazine that is supposed to give Reader's Digest a run around the world, is hardly a ball of fire in the United States after seven months.

Its American distributor says he is satisfied that the magazine is now available in almost every state, "wherever they want it," and that college towns seem to be receiving it with more than common interest.

He concedes, however, that "it's not catching on like wildfire," and he comments that at the present time, "we'd like to see if we can consolidate our circulation."

The handsome, Digest-size, multicolored, 50-cent, 248-page July edition, for example, will have a U.S. distribution of less than 25,000 copies. The Reader's Digest sells 17.2 million copies domestically.

But Sputnik, launched last January as a condensation of the best in Soviet newspapers and magazines, was never meant to give that kind of competition in the United States. Abroad it might be a different matter, for Sputnik lists 40 countries in which it is distributed.

Nevertheless, it will have to travel like the satellite it was named after to catch up with the Digest's foreign circulation of 10.7 million copies in several languages. Sputnik originally was printed in English, Russian and Japanese, but more languages will be added.

In the United States, Eastern News Distribution, Inc., which supplies newsstands across the nation, reports that of the 25,000 copies now distributed some are returned by dealers, "but the Reader's Digest has some returns too."

"We're not doing much promotion," a spokesman said, "and you really can't launch a magazine until you promote it. In the past we did some, but now we want to see how the results hold up."

The editors reportedly hoped for a circulation of 50,000 in the United States, a small goal that still seems within sight. Many times more Americans, however, have seen Sputnik satel-

Computer Evolution

Computers have been around long enough that few persons regard the computer technique as a new art. But members of the scientific community look upon the computer as an infant which has in no way reached its potential.

Dr. Harrison Shull, professor of chemistry at Indiana University, had a few words to say recently about the computer of the future. It won't be human, but its uncanny responses and reactions will make it almost seem so.

Until now computers have been used largely to solve complex mathematical problems. As Dr. Shull puts it, "the computer has been confined to the role of glorified desk calculator." Excellent mathematicians they are, but the scientist who works with a computer is impatient to harness the full capacity of the machine to the myriad research chores which must precede any scientific advance.

A computer which is linked directly with instruments and other laboratory devices not only can receive and assimilate information but can be programmed to react in a number of different ways, depending upon the information received. It can also be used to give the instruments new instructions.

From this will emerge a more rapid pace of technological advancement. Jobs which formerly required years will take only weeks to finish. Discoveries can be utilized immediately instead of wasting much time as at present for word of each innovation to be circulated within the yield of endeavor, with further delays while the mechanics of applying each new discovery are developed.

For Safer Hospitals

A hospital isn't the safest place in the world, according to a study by two doctors of 240 patients in a North Carolina teaching general hospital during a recent one-month period.

Nearly 20 per cent "suffered some kind of iatrogenic reaction." (Iatrogenic — induced by a physician). These included reactions to drugs; accidents such as falls and errors in medication, and illness brought on by the diagnostic or therapeutic procedures.

Many of the "iatrogenic reactions" were moderate, but "episodes resulting in prolonged hospitalization, permanent disability or death occurred at the rate of one for every 99 patient days."

Findings were reported in the Southern Medical Journal, and reiterated in the Medical World News for July 7. The investigators say the hospital hazards are by no means unique to their institutions.

The fact that this report was compiled by and for doctors is somewhat reassuring, for it indicates that the medical world is concerned about hospital hazards. Concern is not quite enough, however. It is time to take drastic action to make hospitals safe.

Ironie

Shades of irony.

Guess who has given up his late-evening walks in the nation's capital because of Washington's rising crime rate?

J. Edgar Hoover.

The tough-talking director of the FBI says he has ceased his usual evening stroll of several miles because Washington is too rough for him.

Surely there must be some way to countermand court decisions which have seriously hampered all law-enforcement agencies.

Letter to Pavement Plato

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Pavement Plato:

"Everybody has been knocking women lately, as if to be one were almost against the law.

"All we hear every day is how bad we are. We are accused of pampering ourselves, henpecking our husbands, and spoiling our children.

"Surely we aren't altogether bad. We must have some nice qualities. Why doesn't someone tell us what they like about us for a change? That might even inspire us to try to be better. Modern Eve."

Not a bad idea, Eve. Woman must have some good qualities or she wouldn't have managed to remain the apple of man's eye since the Garden of Eden.

But what are they? It's hard to say. What one man finds appealing in a woman another man may find upsets his digestion.

However, at the risk of being regarded as a traitor in some quarters, here are some of the things I like about women:

Most of them no longer sweep dirt under the living-room rug as they now have vacuum cleaners.

Some of them are fun to walk behind and look at when a fellow doesn't have any big important world problem on his mind.

They may whimper about small annoyances but they are as strong as granite under real adversity.

If a big lie is needed to save a social situation, they can tell one without batting an eye.

Merely by the way they throw the ball they can give a man a vast feeling of superiority.

It is amazing how many things they can keep cooking on a kitchen stove and still manage to get them all done at the same time.

When you take one of them to a restaurant, she can give you sound advice on whether it is better to eat the cantaloupe a la mode with a fork or a spoon.

If your child gets a runny nose, your wife will generally wipe it rather than ask you to. You simply can't beat them for many small chores like this around the house.

A homely man becomes bitter and full of secret self-pity about his homeliness, but a homely woman is always sure that there is something beautiful about her. And this is true.

Woman is a wiser animal than man. As a man becomes more knowledgeable through experience, he comes to distrust his instincts. A woman rarely does. She retains a blind faith in her instinctual wisdom, which she calls intuition, and there are occasions in life when this gift of nature is a better guide than the precepts taught by experience.

When it comes to getting a button sewed on, there is nothing like a dame.

They tend to be forgiving. No matter how shabbily a man has treated a woman, if she loves him he can melt her anger into fondness with the surprise gift of a handful of flowers — or even a mink coat.

Women have inherent nobility and grace and self-respect. It is only the standards they set and cling to that keeps our civilization, sorry as it is, from degenerating into a worse jungle.

Finally, there is nothing finer to come home to and see, shining in warm loveliness across a candlelit dinner table, than a woman.

Well, there I've said it. Those are a few of the things men like about women.

Bank Robbers Are Nabbed in Cincy

BLUE ASH, Ohio (AP)—Two Greater Cincinnati area men charged with robbing a Columbus loan company remained in custody today in this Cincinnati suburb.

James Angel, 41, and William Webber, 52, both of Norwood, were arrested late Thursday afternoon at an Interstate 75 exit a few hours after a gunman held up the Central Savings and Loan Co. in Columbus.

Earthquakes in the United States have claimed only 1,500 persons since settlement. Almost half the victims perished in the 1906 San Francisco disaster.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE MESS SERGEANT was just about fed up with all the complaints registered about the bread he was serving his outfit. "What are you birds squawking about?" he demanded. "If Washington had had that bread at Valley Forge he'd have given thanks to the Lord for it." "That's entirely possible," agreed one perky young private. "It was fresh then."

Charles Rice tells about an embarrassing moment in the career of a magician named Blackstone, a headliner in Keith vaudeville not so many years ago. Blackstone, on the day in question, was doing his stuff at a playhouse in the heart of Chicago's theatrical district. For the climax of his act, he fired three revolver shots, whereupon an accomplice in handcuffs escaped from a locked trunk in mid-stage and made for the wings. While Blackstone exhibited the empty trunk to the befuddled audience, the accomplice was trained to race down the aisle, jangling his manacles, and shouting, "Here I am, Maestro! Here I am!"

This particular day, however, the accomplice went AWOL, and Blackstone had to break in a substitute at the last minute. "When you get off the stage," instructed Blackstone, "run like mad around to the front of the theatre and gallop down the aisle yelling 'Here I am' at the top of your lungs. Now that's not much to ask, is it?"

The substitute agreed it wasn't—particularly with a ten-dollar bonus held out to him. He followed instructions to the letter, his "Here I am" ringing loud and clear. Unfortunately, he had made one slight error, however. He'd taken a wrong turn at the end of the stage-door alley, and ran into the Harris Theatre next door by mistake. His "Here I am" didn't help the second act climax of Ibsen's "Ghosts" one bit. In fact, he lost his job.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A stroke, one of the dreaded and serious causes of long-standing illness, is the result of a hemorrhage, or clot, in one of the larger blood vessels of the brain. When the blood supply and its life-bringing oxygen is interfered with, the brain suffers damage which then affects the rest of the body. The severity of the stroke depends on the size of the artery to the brain that is damaged.

For years research scientists, many under government sponsorship, had been working to reduce the frequency of this condition. A most interesting statistical survey has just been released from Harvard University Medical School which may yet prevent some strokes and spare many lives.

Dr. Ralph S. Paffenbarger, Jr., has studied 855 college-trained patients whose records were easily available. He came to the astonishing conclusion that victims of serious and even fatal strokes had definite characteristics that shed light on the cause.

One hundred and seventy-one of these former college students who had died of strokes were compared with 684 of their surviving classmates. These are some of the important conclusions he came to.

Students who had smoked more than 10 cigarettes a day had twice as many strokes as those who had smoked only a few or none at all. Students who participated in college sports and continued some form of exercise afterwards had fewer strokes than those who did not exercise.

There were other conclusions of a more technical nature like high blood pressure and the general body build that were not under the direct control of any of these people. It was interesting, too, that many of the characteristics of the stroke victims closely paralleled those, in another study, who had had heart attacks.

These are forceful conclusions and should be respected by those who continue to smoke, gain excessive weight and do very little exercise.

There are many instruments that now can be inserted into the lungs, the lower intestines, the stomach and into the urinary bladder so that the doctor can visualize hidden areas for the diagnosis and treatment of disease. These scopes are remarkable and ingenious.

A bronchoscope is one that can be placed into the lungs for the detection of tumors and diseases in the entire bronchial tree. Through these rigid tubes, specially designed instruments can remove the most unusual foreign bodies.

A tiny grasper can gently remove a peanut from the lungs of a child without breaking it. An open safety pin can be closed with another forceps before it is removed from the lung or esophagus.

I am certain that no one would mind if from left field I introduce the warning that infants and children do not have enough nourishment in nuts to warrant their danger of being sucked into the lungs.

Now another scope has been devised by Dr. Richard L. Lipson at the University of Vermont. With it he can painlessly, under local anesthesia, look into a joint of the body in order to view, photograph and even take out a piece of tissue for the diagnosis of a particular type of arthritis. With this new instrument many cases of surgery for this purpose can be avoided.

Sen. Brooke Favors Riot Study Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, the Senate's only Negro member, plans soon to propose immediate creation of a select committee with "the broadest latitude" to investigate causes and possible cures of racial rioting.

"I honestly feel the country is looking to the Senate for leadership in furnishing affirmative action to solve what is certainly one of the most urgent domestic problems we have ever faced," the Massachusetts Republican said in a letter to Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

The Business World

By John Cuniff

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Sputnik, not the satellite but the Soviet English-language magazine that is supposed to give Reader's Digest a run around the world, is hardly a ball of fire in the United States after seven months.

Its American distributor says he is satisfied that the magazine is now available in almost every state, "wherever they want it," and that college towns seem to be receiving it with more than common interest.

He concedes, however, that "it's not catching on like wildfire," and he comments that at the present time, "we'd like to see if we can consolidate our circulation."

The handsome, Digest-size, multicolored, 50-cent, 248-page July edition, for example, will have a U.S. distribution of less than 25,000 copies. The Reader's Digest sells 17.2 million copies domestically.

But Sputnik, launched last January as a condensation of the best in Soviet newspapers and magazines, was never meant to give that kind of competition in the United States. Abroad it might be a different matter, for Sputnik lists 40 countries in which it is distributed.

Nevertheless, it will have to travel like the satellite it was named after to catch up with the Digest's foreign circulation of 10.7 million copies in several languages. Sputnik originally was printed in English, Russian and Japanese, but more languages will be added.

In the United States, Eastern News Distribution, Inc., which supplies newsstands across the nation, reports that of the 25,000 copies now distributed some are returned by dealers, "but the Reader's Digest has some returns too."

"We're not doing much promotion," a spokesman said, "and you really can't launch a magazine until you promote it. In the past we did some, but now we want to see how the results hold up."

The editors reportedly hoped for a circulation of 50,000 in the United States, a small goal that still seems within sight. Many times more Americans, however, have seen Sputnik satellites in the skies than Sputnik magazines on the newsstands. Its sales generally are restricted to downtown stores rather than corner newsstands or suburban variety stores.

As for doing business with the Russians, the distributor says, "It's easy to deal with them." The contract is based on the number of magazines distributed, and he says, he isn't losing money.

"We're in business. We couldn't stay in this and take a loss. We're compensated for our services."

For the publisher, Novosti Press Agency, it may be a different matter. Even the barest expenses could not be met on the $12,000 or so return from present circulation. Just a few years ago one American magazine, the old Coronet, went broke with a circulation of three million and lots more ads.

The current issue of Sputnik has only eight full-page advertisements, four from Finnish companies—the magazine is printed there—and four from Soviet industries: lumber, cameras, fur coats and textiles.

Dear Abby: Good Taste Is Timeless

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is there something wrong with me, or is it "the times?"

I am a widow with a small circle of married friends. Every once in a while someone will invite me to their home to see movies of a wedding, confirmation, or a vacation trip. Then without warning, they show some movies (rented) that were made for stag parties. (Strip-teasers and "dirty" movies. I'm sure you know what I mean.)

Everyone laughs and thinks

JIM'S PAY & SAVE

400 N. Court

it's great fun, but I am irked. I don't want to be a "wet blanket" or a "party pooper" by conspicuously walking out when they spring surprise movies on the crowd, but I don't care for this kind of stuff at all. Any solutions?

WET BLANKET

DEAR WET: There is nothing wrong with you, nor is it "the times." Good taste is timeless. If your "little circle" of friends cannot be trusted to keep the entertainment clean, make a bigger circle.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nearly two years, and I am just about ready to leave him for what I hope you won't think is a silly reason I just can't take his "teasing" any more. He is always punching me, or pinching me, or squeezing the breath out of me.

Abby, I have tried to tell him I don't like such rough treatment, but he laughs and says they are only "love pats," and he keeps right on hurting me. If you were to see some of the bruises I carry from his "love pats" you would think we had been in a terrible fight.

I have begged and pleaded and even cried, but nothing works. Have you any words of advice? It's getting where I hate to see him come home at night.

MANHANDLED

DEAR MANHANDLED: His pinching me, or squeezing the "love pats" are conscious, or more likely unconscious acts of hostility and aggression which have nothing to do with "love" and are ruining your relationship.

Tell him so, and implore him to seek out professional help. If he refuses, prepare for a break before there are children.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this because I just can't stand dirt and filth. Ever since my son got married he has had to lie in dirt. Believe me, my home was never like that.

His wife gets up around noon, eats a big breakfast, lights a cigarette, and sits down to watch TV all day. She even takes the phone off the hook so nobody can disturb her.

When her husband comes home there is no supper in sight. The beds aren't even made yet. She has him trained pretty good. He walks in the house carrying a sack full of groceries because he knows there's nothing to eat. Then he has to fix the supper for both of them.

You can't tell this girl anything. She is dumb and lazy. I've seen her laundry hanging on the line for three days. Boy, what a prize my son got. How do you propose he gets this fat lazy girl off her rocking chair? He's the peaceful type. He don't like fights.

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When your son gets fed up enough with son gets fed up enough with things the way they are, he'll think of something. And until then... it's HIS problem.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "YOUNG AND IN TROUBLE": Tell your parents at once. I promise you they will not throw you out of the house. In times of serious trouble, no matter what they have said in the past, parents are your best friends and will do what is best for you.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jay Rockefeller, a member of one of the nation's wealthiest families who spent two years as an anti-poverty worker in rural West Virginia has urged Congress to continue the war on poverty as a separate program.

"You have to attract young people into this," Rockefeller, now a West Virginia Democratic state assemblyman, told the House Education and Labor Committee Friday.

Some House Republicans have proposed dividing federal anti-poverty efforts among various agencies. They now are centered in the Office of Economic Opportunity.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association has urged federal authorities to guard against premature and possibly false judgments regarding Wednesday's air collision over North Carolina.

AOPA President J. B. Hartman Jr. said his office has been deluged with protests over published reports connected with the crash of a Piedmont Airlines jet and a small business plane in which 82 persons died.

"We protest strongly the false and misleading statements attributed to Asheville (N.C.) tower chief Harold Roberts and an unnamed FAA spokesman in connection with the Henderson collision," Hartman said in telegrams to the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board.

Hartman said the statements, not substantiated by the safety board, included reported statements that the twin-engine Cessna 310 plane was not operating in accordance with its filed flight plan and that the pilot had failed to communicate with the Asheville control tower at the time of the accident.

Dear Abby: Good Taste Is Timeless

DEAR ABBY: Is there something wrong with me, or is it "the times."

I am a widow with a small circle of married friends. Every once in a while someone will invite me to their home to see movies of a wedding, confirmation, or a vacation trip. Then without warning, they show some movies (rented) that were made for stag parties. (Strip-teasers and "dirty" movies. I'm sure you know what I mean.)

Everyone laughs and thinks

it's great fun, but I am irked. I don't want to be a "wet blanket" or a "party pooper" by conspicuously walking out when they spring surprise movies on the crowd, but I don't care for this kind of stuff at all. Any solutions?

WET BLANKET

DEAR WET: There is nothing wrong with you, nor is it "the times." Good taste is timeless. If your "little circle" of friends cannot be trusted to keep the entertainment clean, make a bigger circle.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nearly two years, and I am just about ready to leave him for what I hope you won't think is a silly reason I just can't take his "teasing" any more. He is always punching me, or pinching me, or squeezing the breath out of me.

Abby, I have tried to tell him I don't like such rough treatment, but he laughs and says they are only "love pats," and he keeps right on hurting me. If you were to see some of the bruises I carry from his "love pats" you would think we had been in a terrible fight.

I have begged and pleaded and even cried, but nothing works. Have you any words of advice? It's getting where I hate to see him come home at night.

MANHANDLED

DEAR MANHANDLED: His pinching me, or squeezing the "love pats" are conscious, or more likely unconscious acts of hostility and aggression which have nothing to do with "love" and are ruining your relationship.

Tell him so, and implore him to seek out professional help. If he refuses, prepare for a break before there are children.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this because I just can't stand dirt and filth. Ever since my son got married he has had to lie in dirt. Believe me, my home was never like that.

His wife gets up around noon, eats a big breakfast, lights a cigarette, and sits down to watch TV all day. She even takes the phone off the hook so nobody can disturb her.

When her husband comes home there is no supper in sight. The beds aren't even made yet. She has him trained pretty good. He walks in the house carrying a sack full of groceries because he knows there's nothing to eat. Then he has to fix the supper for both of them.

You can't tell this girl anything. She is dumb and lazy. I've seen her laundry hanging on the line for three days. Boy, what a prize my son got. How do you propose he gets this fat lazy girl off her rocking chair? He's the peaceful type. He don't like fights.

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: When your son gets fed up enough with son gets fed up enough with things the way they are, he'll think of something. And until then . . . It's HIS problem.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "YOUNG AND IN TROUBLE": Tell your parents at once. I promise you they will not throw you out of the house. In times of serious trouble, no matter what they have said in the past, parents are your best friends and will do what is best for you.

ATLANTIS FOUND?—A Greek-American archeologist team announced at a news conference at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts the discovery of ruins of a city buried by a volcanic eruption on the Greek island of Thira 3,400 years ago. The scientists believe the city could be part of the lost continent of Atlantis, fabled in the writings of Plato. Shown is an uncovered house (left) and whole vases (right) discovered in the house.

Recent Soviet Bungling Has Diplomats Puzzled

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Western diplomats are not as surprised by the Soviet Union's failure to win the diplomatic battle at the United Nations over the Middle East as by the string of blunders that caused the Russians to lose the skirmishes as well as the war itself.

No one can recall a time when the Kremlin got into so many untenable positions and suffered so many rebuffs in any similar two-month period.

This raises some questions whether Soviet diplomats suddenly lost their touch, and if so who was to blame for the step-by-step lapses.

There has been widespread speculation that Nikolai T. Fedorenko was the central figure and that he may be replaced, but it would be an oversimplification to pin the whole thing on Moscow's delegate to the U.N.

At least part of the trouble can be traced to top-level officials in Moscow. Some of it stemmed from faulty intelligence and some from diplomatic necessity which required the Soviet Union to take losing positions.

Most U.N. officials don't think Fedorenko initiated the idea of the emergency session of the General Assembly, overriding the long-held Soviet doctrine that peacekeeping matters should be handled by the Security Council.

Since 1950 the Soviet Union had insisted that the "uniting for peace" procedure for calling emergency assembly sessions was illegal, but that is the way the current session was convened. This procedure was first proposed by the United States to get around persistent Soviet vetoes in the Security Council.

The decision on this seemed to be one for the highest level. This is true also on the personal participation of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in the assembly session.

That is one reason why the failure of the Soviet Union to get a clear-cut assembly demand for the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab territory is a blow to the Russians and helps explain why they have kept Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in New York for more than four weeks trying to find a face-saving formula.

As the permanent representative of the Soviet Union at U.N. headquarters, Fedorenko was the man in the middle during most of the debate, and he was responsible for carrying out the Kremlin's decisions. It is generally agreed that his bitter attacks on Israel and his sniping at various individuals, including Secretary-General U Thant and three Security Council presidents, contributed to an unfavorable image presented by the Russians.

When the war broke out June 5, most council members were ready to vote an immediate cease-fire appeal. Fedorenko insisted that the appeal be linked with a demand for Israeli troops to pull back to their June 4 positions. The Soviet position apparently was based on intelligence reports which failed to show the extent of Egyptian military losses.

Eventually the Russians and the Arabs accepted the cease-fire resolutions without any call for troop withdrawals — but by that time Israeli troops had made further gains against Egypt and had inflicted heavy losses on Jordan and Syria as well.

The biggest single mistake made by the Russians, diplomats suggest, was to call the assembly into emergency session. They apparently believed they would win support for Soviet demands already rejected by the Security Council. These regularize his status and make him more useful in the ministry of the Gospel — Paul had Timothy circumcised and took him with him on his journey.

At this point in their travels something strange and inexplicable happened. For some unexplained reason, Paul became aware that the Holy Spirit was directing the missionaries to be silent, to refrain from preaching, though they were passing through many cities as they made their way across Asia Minor in a northwesterly direction. They realized that the Spirit was forbidding them to preach the gospel in Asia or to go into the province of Bithynia, and was telling them to continue on to Troas and the Aegean Sea.

In all probability, neither Paul nor Timothy recognized the importance of their position as they stood on the Aegean coast. They were standing on the threshold of a new world, but to them it must have seemed the end of the journey. It took a vision in the middle of the night to show the apostle his next move. A cry for as-

GOLDEN TEXT

"And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them." —Acts 16:10.

Neither would back down and the contention became so sharp that it led to a rift between the two friends.

Undeterred, Barnabas took Mark and sailed to Cyprus, Barnabas' home and scene of the first missionary activities on his earlier journey with Paul. Paul replaced him with Silas, who had returned to Antioch when after the council at Jerusalem.

Thus Barnabas and Mark went in one direction, and Paul and Silas in another, but each pair went to do the Lord's work and revisit the churches that had already been established.

In Lystra, Paul found Timothy, son of a Jewish Christian mother and Greek father, whom Paul came to think of as his adopted son in the faith. In Jewish eyes, Timothy was a Gentile because he was the uncircumcised son of a Greek; in Gentile eyes he was a Jew because he was brought up in his mother's religion.

For expediency's sake — to distance was to be the opening door for the advance of the gospel into Europe.

The Holy Spirit had guided him to the sea; before him were the islands bridging the way to Europe. The form Paul's vision took reveals the thoughts uppermost in his mind since his arrival at the shore.

In Paul's vision he saw a man of Macedonia beseeching him for assistance. "Come over into Macedonia, and help us," the man prayed. It was an earnest plea for help and the apostle recognized it as a call for the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Convinced of what God's will for him was, Paul immediately set out to obey that will. Setting sail from Troas, Paul, Silas and Timothy made for the island of Samothrace, where they stayed the night, and the next day continued their journey to Neapolis, seaport of the Roman military colony of Philippi in Macedonia.

The Gospel had arrived in Europe.

NEW YORK (AP) — People always ask that question: "What is Johnny Carson like?" Here goes:

There has to be something a little nuts about a guy who wants to free-fall from an airplane holding the title cards for the "Tonight Show" with a movie photographer free-falling beside him filming an opening for the show. We talked him out of it.

He has played football with the Jets—he suited up and scrimmaged with them. He pitched once to the leadoff man of the New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium.

He scuba-dived off Freeport, Grand Bahama. He did some stage flying in a Peter Pan rig. He did a hand-over-hand peg climb some 20 feet up a wall.

He has hand-fed ice cream to a 300-pound jaguar. He has done a Twiggie imitation with a wrap-around boa, only this boa was a boa constrictor, still living and looking hungry to me. He even allowed an American bald eagle to perch on his shoulder.

He learned bravery early, at the age of 16, when he was doing a magic act as The Great Carsoni. Rumor says the act was done from the back of a moving truck.

He can still do magic. On the "Tonight Show" he recreated his old magic act and did a splendid job. He's a ventriloquist and handles cards like a Mississippi gambler. To this day he sits around his office rolling quarters over his fingers.

He handles bow and arrow like a sharpshooter. He can wield a battle ax. He can fly-catch better than anyone I've ever seen.

He can dance a bit, sing a bit, play the guitar a bit—he's practicing all these things. He plays the drums with a surprising amount of confidence.

He is a mentalist. At a Miss Universe pageant, he memorized the names and countries of 99 contestants. When he marries (is that the term?) mentalism and cards, he can look at three hands of a bridge game and in an instant tell you the cards of the fourth.

He's a star gazer, and I mean real heavenly bodies, and he uses a telescope. He has learned to fly an airplane.

What is he? He's a perfectionist. He's determined and intent about things. He's outlandish in his demands on himself.

If he had not been a success in television, he would have been a disc jockey doing a marathon seven days in a store window. He would have been a magician saving not just one woman in half but a whole chorus line. He would have been that Mississippi gambler.

If he isn't a man for all seasons, he is a man of all interest, all hobbies. It's good because it keeps him off the streets. And it keeps him from thinking, much, about free-falling from airplanes.

included condemnation of Israel and the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territory. They first dropped their demand for condemnation and then agreed to a watered-down resolution on troop withdrawal, but they were unable to win the required two-thirds majority even then.

Arab sources express the belief that the Soviet Union was the biggest loser in the session because it staked Moscow's prestige on it. The Arabs, they say, came out at least as well off as they went in.

'Kirwan's Ditch' Appears Doomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Michael J. Kirwan's proposed Lake Erie-Ohio River canal was for all purposes doomed Thursday by the State of Pennsylvania.

But the Ohio Democrat refuses to give up on the proposal for building a 120-mile canal between Painesville, Ohio, on Lake Erie, to Rochester, Pa.

"It is up to Pennsylvania. When it sees the light, we will have the canal," Kirwan said Thursday after the House Appropriations Committee turned down President Johnson's request for $2 million to continue planning.

The proposed canal has become known as "Kirwan's Ditch."

Construction was authorized by Congress in 1935, but the only money ever appropriated for the project was for planning. That has hardly dented the over-all estimated cost of between $1 billion and $2 billion.

The action by the Appropriations Committee was a setback for Kirwan, who is chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee that gets first crack at deciding which projects will get congressional appropriations.

Many House members have been reluctant to oppose the canal and run the risk of incurring Kirwan's opposition to projects in their own districts.

It was opposition from Pennsylvania rather than from Congress that really doomed the project.

Sens. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and most of the House members from Pennsylvania are opposed to the canal. So is Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania recently wrote Lt.

Gen. William F. Cassidy, chief of the Army Engineers, that the state is opposed to the project and that it would not provide its portion of the $95 million of the needed local funds for rights-of-way and other necessary local work.

The Pennsylvanians said the canal would be of little benefit to their state.

Recent Soviet Bungling Has Diplomats Puzzled

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Western diplomats are not as surprised by the Soviet Union's failure to win the diplomatic battle at the United Nations over the Middle East as by the string of blunders that caused the Russians to lose the skirmishes as well as the war itself.

No one can recall a time when the Kremlin got into so many untenable positions and suffered so many rebuffs in any similar two-month period.

This raises some questions whether Soviet diplomats suddenly lost their touch, and if so who was to blame for the step-by-step lapses.

There has been widespread speculation that Nikolai T. Fedorenko was the central figure and that he may be replaced, but it would be an oversimplification to pin the whole thing on Moscow's delegate to the U.N.

At least part of the trouble can be traced to top-level officials in Moscow. Some of it stemmed from faulty intelligence and some from diplomatic necessity which required the Soviet Union to take losing positions.

Most U.N. officials don't think Fedorenko initiated the idea of the emergency session of the General Assembly, overriding the long-held Soviet doctrine that peacekeeping matters should be handled by the Security Council.

Since 1950 the Soviet Union had insisted that the "uniting for peace" procedure for calling emergency assembly sessions was illegal, but that is the way the current session was convened. This procedure was first proposed by the United States to get around persistent Soviet vetoes in the Security Council.

The decision on this seemed to be one for the highest level. This is true also on the personal participation of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in the assembly session.

That is one reason why the failure of the Soviet Union to get a clear-cut assembly demand for the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Arab territory is a blow to the Russians and helps explain why they have kept Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in New York for more than four weeks trying to find a face-saving formula.

As the permanent representative of the Soviet Union at U.N. headquarters, Fedorenko was the man in the middle during most of the debate, and he was responsible for carrying out the Kremlin's decisions. It is generally agreed that his bitter attacks on Israel and his sniping at various individuals, including Secretary-General U Thant and three Security Council presidents, contributed to an unfavorable image presented by the Russians.

When the war broke out June 5, most council members were ready to vote an immediate cease-fire appeal. Fedorenko insisted that the appeal be linked with a demand for Israeli troops to pull back to their June 4 positions. The Soviet position apparently was based on intelligence reports which failed to show the extent of Egyptian military losses.

Eventually the Russians and the Arabs accepted the cease-fire resolutions without any call for troop withdrawals — but by that time Israeli troops had made further gains against Egypt and had inflicted heavy losses on Jordan and Syria as well.

The biggest single mistake made by the Russians, diplomats suggest, was to call the assembly into emergency session. They apparently believed they would win support for Soviet demands already rejected by the Security Council. These

The Gospel Goes to Europe

GOD GUIDES THE EXPANSION OF THE CHURCH

Scripture—Acts 15:36-16:12.

By R. H. RAMSEY

WITH the first council of the church at Jerusalem concluded and the matter of circumcision of Gentile Christians resolved, Paul and Barnabas, who had led the Antiochene delegation to the council, returned to Antioch.

With them came Judas and Silas, chief men among the brethren at Jerusalem, bringing greetings to the Antiochenes. After reporting the findings of the Jerusalem council to the church there, the four remained in Antioch for a short while, preaching and teaching.

As time passed, Paul became restless and he talked to Barnabas about revisiting the churches they had established in Asia Minor on their first missionary journey. Barnabas was agreeable, providing they take Mark — who had accompanied them as far as Pamphylia on the first journey — with them.

To this Paul would not agree, reasoning that Mark was unworthy of such an honor because of his regrettable abandonment on the first missionary journey.

regularize his status and make him more useful in the ministry of the Gospel — Paul had Timothy circumcised and took him with him on his journey.

At this point in their travels something strange and inexplicable happened. For some unexplained reason, Paul became aware that the Holy Spirit was directing the missionaries to be silent, to refrain from preaching, though they were passing through many cities as they made their way across Asia Minor in a northwesterly direction. They realized that the Spirit was forbidding them to preach the gospel in Asia or to go into the province of Bithynia, and was telling them to continue on to Troas and the Aegean Sea.

In all probability, neither Paul nor Timothy recognized the importance of their position as they stood on the Aegean coast. They were standing on the threshold of a new world, but to them it must have seemed the end of the journey. It took a vision in the middle of the night to show the apostle his next move. A cry for as-

GOLDEN TEXT

"And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them."
—Acts 16:10.

Neither would back down and the contention became so sharp that it led to a rift between the two friends.

Undeterred, Barnabas took Mark and sailed to Cyprus, Barnabas' home and scene of the first missionary activities on his earlier journey with Paul. Paul replaced him with Silas, who had returned to Antioch with them after the council at Jerusalem.

Thus Barnabas and Mark went in one direction, and Paul and Silas in another, but each pair went to do the Lord's work and revisit the churches that had already been established.

In Lystra, Paul found Timothy, son of a Jewish Christian mother and Greek father, whom Paul came to think of as his adopted son in the faith. In Jewish eyes, Timothy was a Gentile because he was the uncircumcised son of a Greek; in Gentile eyes he was a Jew because he was brought up in his mother's religion.

For expediency's sake — to sistance was to be the opening door for the advance of the gospel into Europe.

The Holy Spirit had guided him to the sea; before him were the islands bridging the way to Europe. The form Paul's vision took reveals the thoughts of permost in his mind since his arrival at the shore.

In Paul's vision he saw a man of Macedonia, beseeching him for assistance. "Come over into Macedonia, and help us," the man prayed. It was an earnest plea for help and the apostle recognized it as a call for the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Convinced of what God's will for him was, Paul immediately set out to obey that will. Setting sail from Troas, Paul, Silas and Timothy made for the island of Samothrace, where they stayed the night, and the next day continued their journey to Neapolis, seaport of the Roman military colony of Philippi in Macedonia.

The Gospel had arrived in Europe.

Cincy's 3rd Straight Loss

Philadelphia Wins 5-3 Over Cincinnati Reds

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gary Sutherland, Philadelphia reserve outfielder, had gone nearly a month without a hit.

But he broke the spell Friday night with an eighth-inning single that scored two runs and carried the Phillies to a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati.

It was Sutherland's first hit since June 28. It wiped out a 3-2 Cincinnati lead as the Reds suffered their third straight loss and fifth in the last 10 games.

The loss left Cincinnati in a third place tie with Atlanta.

Cincinnati aided the Phillies with three errors, including one by shortstop Tommy Helms that kept the Phils eighth-inning rally alive.

The Phils got successive one-out singles from Bill White and Don Lock, chasing Reds' starter Sammy Ellis. Reliever Ted Abernathy got Clay Dalrymple to hit a perfect double play ball, but Helms booted it, filling the bases.

Abernathy then got pinch hitter Gene Oliver to pop up, but Sutherland followed with his two-run single. After an error by Reds catcher John Edwards, the Phillies added another run in the inning on Tony Taylor's infield hit.

Vada Pinson scored a run for the Reds in the sixth and drove in another in the eighth with a double, his second two-bagger of the game. Pete Rose's single and Art Shamsky's triple gave Cincinnati a run in the fourth.

Philadelphia also scored in the second inning with the help of a throwing error by catcher Don Pavletich on a pick-off attempt.

Cleveland Indians Lose To Boston Red Sox, 6-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Luis Tiant and his catcher agree the pitching was good. Somebody forgot to tell the Boston Red Sox.

"I had a good fast ball and good breaking pitches," Tiant said after losing to the Boston Red Sox Friday night, 6-2. "They just hit them."

Cleveland Indians catcher Duke Sims added: "Loolee had good stuff. He made (Tony) Conigliaro, (George) Scott and the other guy (Mike Andrews) hit the ball off the handle, but they fell in for hits."

"Joe Foy hits a hanging pitch and Loolee is out of there, 4-0."

Foy's homer scored Mike Ryan and Andrews in the third inning after Boston has scored one run in the second when Scott singled home Conigliaro. Boston, with seven straight wins, added another run in the fourth off reliever Steve Bailey when Reggie Smith singled and scored on Scott's double.

Darrell Brandman, who doubled and scored the last Red Sox run on a wild pitch in the seventh, stopped the Tribe on eight hits, one of them Leon Wagner's 4th homer with one on in the eighth.

Another bright spot for the Indians was rookie second baseman Vern Fuller, recalled from Portland only three days ago. He got three hits, boosting his team-leading average to .412.

Pinch hitter Don Demeter, batting for Tiant in the third, drove one deep to left but Carl Yastrzemski leaned into the stands and robbed him of a home run.

Hall of Fame's Jimmy Foxx Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Foxx, the barrel-chested Hall of Fame slugger who helped write baseball's home run record book, is dead. He was 59.

The famed Double X died Friday night of a heart attack.

Foxx was first baseman for the old Philadelphia Athletics in the heyday of Connie Mack's A's. They won the American League pennant three years in a row and captured the World Series twice in four games straight.

He was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1951, six years after he retired from the game.

Chualo's Vision Injured in Fight

TORONTO (AP) — George Chualo, who took a terrible beating from Joe Frazier in their heavyweight bout Wednesday night, is in a Toronto hospital with a fractured bone under his right eye, his boxing career possibly at an end.

"He's had double vision ever since the fight," Chualo's manager Irv Ungerman said Friday night. "It's the same type injury Ernie Terrell suffered in his fight with Cassius Clay."

An operation is scheduled today. It will be three weeks before the results are known and another six to eight weeks before doctors decide whether Chualo can fight again, Ungerman said.

Cincy's 3rd Straight Loss

Philadelphia Wins 5-3 Over Cincinnati Reds

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gary Sutherland, Philadelphia reserve outfielder, had gone nearly a month without a hit.

But he broke the spell Friday night with an eighth inning single that scored two runs and carried the Phillies to a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati.

It was Sutherland's first hit since June 28. It wiped out a 3-2 Cincinnati lead as the Reds suffered their third straight loss and fifth in the last 10 games.

The loss left Cincinnati in a third place tie with Atlanta.

Cincinnati aided the Phillies with three errors, including one by shortstop Tommy Helms that kept the Phils eighth-inning rally alive.

The Phils got successive one-out singles from Bill White and Don Lock, chasing Reds' starter Sammy Ellis. Reliever Ted Abernathy got Clay Dalrymple to hit a perfect double play ball, but Helms booted it, filling the bases.

Abernathy then got pinch hitter Gene Oliver to pop up, but Sutherland followed with his two-run single. After an error by Reds catcher John Edwards, the Phillies added another run in the inning on Tony Taylor's infield hit.

Vada Pinson scored a run for the Reds in the sixth and drove in another in the eighth with a double, his second two-bagger of the game. Pete Rose's single and Art Shamsky's triple gave Cincinnati a run in the fourth.

Philadelphia also scored in the second inning with the help of a throwing error by catcher Don Pavletich on a pick-off attempt.

Cleveland Indians Lose To Boston Red Sox, 6-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Luis Tiant and his catcher agree the pitching was good. Somebody forgot to tell the Boston Red Sox.

"I had a good fast ball and good breaking pitches," Tiant said after losing to the Boston Red Sox Friday night, 6-2. "They just hit them."

Cleveland Indians catcher Duke Sims added: "Looie had good stuff. He made (Tony) Conigliaro, (George) Scott and the other guy (Mike Andrews) hit the ball off the handle, but they fell in for hits."

"Joe Foy hits a hanging pitch and Looie is out of there, 4-0."

Foy's homer scored Mike Ryan and Andrews in the third inning after Boston has scored one run in the second when Scott singled home Conigliaro.

Boston, with seven straight wins, added another run in the fourth off reliever Steve Bailey when Reggie Smith singled and scored on Scott's double.

Darrell Brandman, who doubled and scored the last Red Sox run on a wild pitch in the seventh, stopped the Tribe on eight hits, one of them Leon Wagner's 4th homer with one on in the eighth.

Another bright spot for the Indians was rookie second baseman Vern Fuller, recalled from Portland only three days ago. He got three hits, boosting his team-leading average to .412.

Pinch hitter Don Demeter, batting for Tiant in the third, drove one deep to left but Carl Yastrzemski robbed him of a home run.

Hall of Fame's Jimmy Foxx Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Foxx, the barrel-chested Hall of Fame slugger who helped write baseball's home run record book, is dead. He was 59.

The famed Double X died Friday night of a heart attack. Foxx was first baseman for the old Philadelphia Athletics in the heyday of Connie Mack's A's. They won the American League pennant three years in a row and captured the World Series twice in four games straight.

He was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1951, six years after he retired from the game.

Chualo's Vision Injured in Fight

TORONTO (AP) — George Chualo, who took a terrible beating from Joe Frazier in their heavyweight bout Wednesday night, is in a Toronto hospital with a fractured bone under his right eye, his boxing career possibly at an end.

"He's had double vision ever since the fight," Chualo's manager Irv Ungerman said Friday night. "It's the same type injury Ernie Terrell suffered in his fight with Cassius Clay."

An operation is scheduled today. It will be three weeks before the results are known and another six to eight weeks before doctors decide whether Chualo can fight again, Ungerman said.

Venture Gal Wins At Scioto Downs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Venture Gal, a 6-year-old mare owned by Joe Burke of Washington Court House, upset pre race favorite Reggie Hanover in the $4,000 Invitational trot at Scioto Downs Friday night.

Venture Gal, winning by a length in 2:03 45, paid $10.20, $5.40 and $3.20.

A daily double of $67 was paid on Abbe Hudson and Miss Pesky Time (8-4).

The victory gives Kiwanis a record of nine wins and three losses compared to the Bakers' 8-4 mark.

Senators Are Climbing up After Pennant

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Washington Senators don't have any magic formula for their surprising climb in the American League pennant race.

"We've been getting great pitching and timely hitting," Manager Gil Hodges said Friday night after the Senators whipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 and 3-1 in a doubleheader.

The combination usually leads to victories, and the Hodges quote—or something similar—has been uttered by winning managers since baseball was organized in 1839.

But then, it's not how the Senators are winning — but why? Winning 1 of 13 since July 9, Washington has taken over sixth place with a 45-49 record. For the perennial also-rans, that's surprising.

"I don't know how it all started," Coach Eddie Yost said. "But we've been going great ever since we scored five runs in the ninth inning against Cleveland on July 9 and won 8-5."

The Senators, then ninth, swept the doubleheader from Cleveland that day. The twin killing Friday night was the third sweep during the hot streak.

"The players are beginning to believe in themselves," Yost said.

The Washington locker room was noisy after the doubleheader, with one bold voice yelling, "Look out!"

Mace Wins 7th Race at Scioto Downs

In the seventh race at Scioto Downs Friday, Jim Mace drove Patch Brewer, owned by Ken Scot and Roger Servais of Mt. Vernon, to a winning mile in 2:04 4-5.

In the same race, Emmett Ebenhack was third with Margaret Ginger.

The first and third place finishes marked the best performances by local horsemen at the Downs last night.

In other starts, Mace was fifth with the Bowling Stable entry of Little Brother B in the third race and Ebenhack was seventh.

The fourth race saw Jim Arledge reining Berry Belle, owned by Dick and Joe Asher of New Holland to a seventh place finish.

Arledge also drove Leo's Express, owned by Joan Mace and Marilyn Arledge of Circleville, in the ninth race, finishing sixth.

Tonight, Mace will drive Petal Hanover in the first race.

The third event of the evening's program, a pace with a $1,000 purse, will find Ebenhack taking Countess Jerri to the number one pole position, Forrest Short starting Sara Ann Scotch from the number four spot and Porter Martin taking Try Yucatan to the sixth pole position.

Arledge has Steam Mon entered in the fourth race.

In the sixth, Short will rein Royal J. Win. Mace has Mighty Dutch entered in the seventh and Ebenhack goes postward in the $4,000 invitational pace with Miss Red Lion.

Next Wednesday night is Circleville, Williamsport, Ashville night at Scioto Downs. Residents of the area may obtain free passes to races at many of the businesses in the community.

PGA Tournament

Tommy Aaron 1st Going into Third

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — It was like waiting for the other shoe to drop as the $150,000 PGA championship drifted into the third round today.

Arnie's Army and Jack's Pack were the most anxious for something to pop, but after 36 holes there has been a different leader each day and neither was Arnold Palmer nor Jack Nicklaus.

Tommy Aaron, who in his seven years as a golf professional has been close but never a winner, led the parade with a score of 135—a first-round 70 and a seven-under par 65 Friday, which erased the one-day old Columbine Country Club course record of 66.

Another hot, humid day was sighted as the cut-down field of 76 pros trudged forth on Columbine's parched par 36-36-72, 7-436-yard layout. Scores of 151 and under qualified for the final two rounds.

The final rounds will be televised nationally by ABC, today from 6-7:30 p.m., EDT, and Sunday from 5-7 p.m. EDT.

Palmer has a 70-71-141 and Nicklaus 67-75-142.

Tied at 139, four strokes behind Aaron, were Dave Hill, the hero who led the first charge with a 66 and shot a 73 Friday; Dan Sikes, 69-79, and Don Bies, a 29-year-old assistant club pro from Seattle, Wash. 69-70.

Former U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, 75-70, and Julius Boros, 69-76, were tied at 145.

Masters champion Gay Brewer with a 74 was in the 149 bracket, barely escaping the cut.

The PGA defending champion, Al Geiberger, was making a strong run and was three under par until the heat hit him on the back nine. Geiberger bogeyed the last two holes and shot a 71 for 144.

Doug Sanders scored a hole-in-one with a four-iron on the 94-yard 16th hole. He had a 71 for 143.

Pickaway Fair Race Program Announced by Fair Officials

John F. Fissell, race secretary for the Pickaway County Fair, has announced the harness program for the fair.

Races are scheduled 4 p. m. Aug. 1 and Aug. 2. Three races have been planned for each day.

The first day's program will include a pace for two-year-olds and non winners of $400. The trophy blanket will be donated by Kenney Hannan Ford. The second race will be a conditioned pace for non winners of $1,500 in 1967. Sturtin and Dillard will present the blanket. The third race is a conditioned trot for non winners of $1,000 in 1967 with Shaeffer's Tire Shop providing the trophy.

On Wednesday, a conditioned pace for non winners of $1,000 in 1967 will start the program. The trophy will be presented by Tink's Tavern. The second race is a pace for non winners of $1,500. Mrs. Ralph McDill will present the blanket.

CLOSING out the racing program will be a trot for two-year-olds and non winners of $400. The Savings Bank is sponsoring the trophy blanket.

All events are overnight races, with a two per cent entry fee to be paid by 10:30 a. m. on the day before the race, at which time the positions will be drawn. Purses are divided with 45 per cent going to the winner, 25 per cent to second, 15 per cent to third, 10 per cent to fourth and five per cent to fifth. All events will be raced in two heats of one mile each.

Members of the speed committee are Harlow Arledge, Wayne Martin, Glenn McCoy and Fissell.

Roger Huston of Xenia and Norm Lamkin of Olney, Ill., have been scheduled as announcers for the program. Hank Butler of Waverly will be the starter for the race program.

Robert Steele, business manager of Scioto Downs, and a well known harness racing official before that will be the presiding judge. His associates will be Glenn McCoy, Pickaway County Agricultural Society president and Steve Jones.

Timers for the races will be Sonny Denny, Harlow Arledge and Neal M. Frazier.

THE clerks are the Misses Ann and Sara Short. The outrider for the first day of racing will be Miss Nancy Christy of Amanda, riding Lady Ann.

For the second day of racing, Miss Susan Reichelderfer of Circleville will be riding Sunshine Delight, owned by Marvin Reichelderfer.

Buffalo Bills Kick Out Six Key Players

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP)—Six key players, all unsigned to 1967 contracts, were ordered Friday to leave the Buffalo Bills' training camp for refusing to participate in the American Football League team's practice session.

Bobby Burnett, a seventh player in the group that refused to scrimmage Thursday, worked out this morning.

Coach Joel Collier ordered these players to leave the camp: split end Art Powell, quarterback Tom Flores, running back Keith Lincoln, flanker Elbert Dubenion, cornerback Booker Edgerson and linebacker Marty Schottenheimer.

Collier had warned the players Thursday night they would be fined for each practice session they missed.

The players announced individually they would not engage in contact work until they had reached agreement with the Bills on salaries.

Burnett, last year's AFL Rookie of the Year, has a two-year contract but indicated he wanted a new pact.

Pan-American Games Open In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (AP) — Scorching temperatures were due to subside and an athletic invasion swell to about 2,400 performers for Sunday's formal opening of the fifth Pan-American Games.

After four days of 90-plus weather, isolated showers and temperatures around 80 degrees might prevail when Prince Philip reviews the colorful parade of athletes from at least 24 North and South American nations in the traditional opening.

Fanfare before a capacity 20,000 in the Winnipeg Stadium launching the 12-day games begins at 2 p.m. EST.

The withering weather in this south central Canadian city of 500,000 slowed athletic practice to a standstill this week, but the 22-sport program is scheduled to start Monday with action in 10 sports.

Although the total entry fell short of predictions it would top the record 2,583 from 21 nations at Mexico City in 1955. The United States sent its largest Pan-Am delegation, 402 men and women athletes. Uncle Sam's powerful squad was topped numerically only by host Canada's 443.

Track and field squad begins competition next Saturday. Swimming competition begins Tuesday.

Sports beginning Monday include baseball—with a spotlighted U.S. vs. Cuba night game—men's and women's basketball, cycling, shooting, men's and women's volleyball, tennis, water polo, field hockey, gymnastics and soccer.

Senators Are Climbing up After Pennant

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Washington Senators don't have any magic formula for their surprising climb in the American League pennant race.

"We've been getting great pitching and timely hitting," Manager Gil Hodges said Friday night after the Senators whipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 and 3-1 in a doubleheader.

The combination usually leads to victories, and the Hodges quote—or something similar—has been uttered by winning managers since baseball was organized in 1839.

But then, it's not how the Senators are winning — but why? Winning 1 of 13 since July 9, Washington has taken over sixth place with a 45-49 record. For the perennial also-rans, that's surprising.

"I don't know how it all started," Coach Eddie Yost said. "But we've been going great ever since we scored five runs in the ninth inning against Cleveland on July 9 and won 8-5."

The Senators, then ninth, swept the doubleheader from Cleveland that day. The twin killing Friday night was the third sweep during the hot streak.

"The players are beginning to believe in themselves," Yost said.

The Washington locker room was noisy after the doubleheader, with one bold voice yelling, "Look out!"

Mace Wins 7th Race at Scioto Downs

In the seventh race at Scioto Downs Friday, Jim Mace drove Patch Brewer, owned by Ken Scot and Roger Servais of Mt. Vernon, to a winning mile in 2:04.45.

In the same race, Emmett Ebenhack was third with Margaret Ginger.

The first and third place finishes marked the best performances by local horsemen at the Downs last night.

In other starts, Mace was fifth with the Bowling Stable entry of Little Brother B in the third race and Ebenhack was a seventh.

The fourth race saw Jim Arledge reining Berry Belle, owned by Dick and Joe Asher of New Holland to a seventh place finish.

Arledge also drove Leo's Express, owned by Joan Mace and Marilyn Arledge of Circleville, in the ninth race, finishing sixth.

Tonight, Mace will drive Petal Hanover in the first race.

The third event of the evening's program, a pace with a $1,000 purse, will find Ebenhack taking Countess Jerri to the number one pole position.

Forrest Short starting Sara Ann Scotch from the number four spot and Porter Martin taking Try Yucatan to the sixth pole position.

Arledge has Steam Mon entered in the fourth race.

In the sixth, Short will rein Royal J. Win. Mace has Mighty Dutch entered in the seventh and Ebenhack goes postward in the $4,000 invitational pace with Miss Red Lion.

Next Wednesday night is Circleville, Williamsport, Ashville night at Scioto Downs. Residents of the area may obtain free passes to races at many of the businesses in the communities.

PGA Tournament

Tommy Aaron 1st Going into Third

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — It was like waiting for the other shoe to drop as the $150,000 PGA championship drifted into the third round today.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus were the most anxious for something to pop, but after 36 holes there has been a different leader each day and neither was Arnold Palmer nor Jack Nicklaus.

Tommy Aaron, who in his seven years as a golf professional has been close but never a winner, led the parade with a score of 135—a first-round 70 and a seven-under par 65 Friday, which erased the one-day-old Columbine Country Club course record of 96.

Another hot, humid day was sighted as the cut-down field of 76 pros trudged forth on Columbine's parched par 36-62, 7,436-yard layout. Scores of 151 and under qualified for the final two rounds.

The final rounds will be televised nationally by ABC, today from 6-7:30 p.m., EDT, and Sunday from 5-7 p.m. EDT.

Palmer has a 70-71-141 and Nicklaus 67-75-142.

Tied at 139, four strokes behind Aaron, were Dave Hill, the hero who led the first charge with a 66 and shot a 73 Friday; Dan Sikes, 69-79, and Don Bies, a 29-year-old assistant club pro from Seattle, Wash. 69-70.

Former U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, 75-70, and Julius Boros, 69-76, were tied at 145.

Masters champion Gay Brewer with a 74 was in the 149 bracket, barely escaping the cut.

The PGA defending champion, Al Geiberger, was making a strong run and was three under par until the heat hit him on the back nine. Geiberger bogeyed the last two holes and shot a 71 for 144.

Doug Sanders scored a hole-in-one with a four-iron on the 94-yard 18th hole. He had a 71 for 143.

Although the total entry fell short of predictions it would top the record 2,583 from 21 nations at Mexico City in 1955. The United States sent its largest Pan-Am delegation, 462 men and women athletes. Uncle Sam's powerful squad was topped numerically only by host Canada's 443.

Buffalo Bills Kick Out Six Key Players

Buffalo, N.Y. (AP)—Six key players, all unsigned to 1967 contracts, were ordered Friday to leave the Buffalo Bills' training camp for refusing to participate in the American Football League team's practice session.

Bobby Burnett, a seventh player in the group that refused to scrimmage Thursday, worked out this morning.

Coach Joel Collier ordered these players to leave the camp: split end Art Powell, quarterback Tom Flores, running back Keith Lincoln, flanker Elbert Dubenion, cornerback Booker Edgerson and linebacker Marty Schottenheimer.

Collier had warned the players Thursday night they would be fined for each practice session they missed.

The players announced individually they would not engage in contact work until they had reached agreement with the Bills on salaries.

Burnett, last year's AFL Rookie of the Year, has a two-year contract but indicated he wanted a new pact.

INFORMALITY — Informality is stressed at the summer classes being conducted at Westfall. William McFadden, who coordinates the summer tutorial program and the remedial reading program at the school, directs a discussion with two students.

youngsters, Ginther is also instructing 19 teachers in the unique education method.

The color association method of teaching sounds was developed by Caleb Gattegno about 1947. The same approach is used by the United Nations to translate speeches to print. It is also the method used by the Peace Corps according to Dr. Ginther.

IT IS not only successful, reaching about nine of every ten youngsters, but is popular with the students.

Informality in the classroom is stressed by Ginther. Youngsters are urged to wear their "every day" clothes to classes and many appear in shorts.

Even the teachers are urged to dress casually.

One of the youngsters at Westfall taking the program told the William McFadden, coordinator of the summer reading and tutorial program there, that he "liked to read now."

Other comments garnered by program include: "I like summer school very well," and "I hope they have summer school next year."

One youngster even told McFadden, who coordinates the home.

Elementary and high school students alike are bussed to the high school for the summer school sessions.

THE cost of the reading program alone is about $14,000.

Actor Basil Rathbone Dead of Heart Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Basil Rathbone, the suave Shakespearean actor familiar to two generations of moviegoers as the screen's clipped-accented Sherlock Holmes, is dead of a heart attack. He was 75.

Rathbone played the role of Arthur Conan Doyle's deerstalker-capped, fictional sleuth in 16 films midway in his career as a Hollywood star.

Although he achieved popular fame and considerable fortune through the Holmes series, Rathbone usually referred to the experience derisively after he quit.

"I played Holmes for seven years, and nobody thought I could do anything else," he once complained.

He was born the son of an English mining engineer in Johannesburg, South Africa. As a boy he narrowly escaped death at the hands of the Boers and his father decided to send him to England to be educated.

At 18 he went to work for an insurance company, an experience he found "frightfully dull and uninvigorating." Soon after he left and joined a Shakespearean troupe managed by his cousin, Sir Frank Benson.

During World War I he was a killed captain in the Liverpool Scottish Regiment. He once explained his war experience to an interviewer thus: "All I did, old man, was disguise myself as a tree — that's correct, a tree — and cross no-man's land to gather a bit of information from the German lines."

His Hollywood career included more than 100 films.

Among them were "David Copperfield," "Anna Karenina" and "Romeo and Juliet."

Earlier this year, playing the Duke of York in a television drama, "Soldier in Love," he told an interviewer: "If you close your eyes during the first act you may very well miss me. But when it is no longer a matter of being a romantic star, an actor can play what he wants to play. And I wanted to play the Duke of York."

He is survived by his wife, the former Ouida Bergere, whom he married in 1926, their daughter, Cynthia, and a son Rodion, by his previous marriage to Ethel Marian Forman which ended in divorce.

A funeral service will be held Tuesday morning at St. James Episcopal Church.

Three Injured In 2 Mishaps

City Police and County Sheriff's Deputies investigated two separate accidents which occurred at nearly the same time Friday and were the result of similar actions by drivers.

Police were called to Route 22 in front of Kroger's where an auto driven by William Corne, Route 1, Stoutsville, was struck from behind by an auto driven by Stephen Cupp, 17, Route 2.

According to the report, Corne stated he stopped for a car that was turning into Kroger's and was struck in the rear by another car.

Cupp told Police he applied the brakes, but was not able to stop the car in time to avoid hitting the car ahead.

Moderate damage was done to both vehicles.

Two passengers in Corne's auto, Mike Corne, 7, and Daria Corne, 3, were taken to Berger Hospital for facial lacerations.

Cupp was cited by Police for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

At 7:49 p. m. the Sheriff's Dept. was notified of an accident on Route 23 in front of the American Legion Post.

An auto driven by Barbara Lois Ott, 1665 Lone Pine Road, was struck from behind by an auto driven by Robert Callahan, Columbus.

Miss Ott stated that she was turning into the American Legion Post lot when she was struck by another car from behind.

Callahan, 79, told Deputies he was south-bound on Route 23 when he saw the car ahead signal for turning. He said he applied the brakes but was not able to stop in time to avoid hitting the other car.

Damage to both vehicles was listed as moderate.

Miss Ott complained of neck and arm injuries and was taken to Berger Hospital.

The mishap is still under investigation.

Cyclist Caught Following High Speed Chase by OSP

Highway Patrol and city police officials were led on a wild, high speed chase early Saturday morning through Circleville and Washington Twp.

It all began when Patrolman P. J. Ranch of the Highway Patrol observed a motorcycle southbound on Route 23 with no license plates and no headlight. He obtained a speed check on the vehicle at 70 miles per hour.

The motorcycleist, James P. Montgomery, 21, of 115 Highland Ave., did not stop when Patrolman Ranch signaled him. He turned off Route 23 onto County Road 511.

Delaware County Sheriff Eugene Jackson and deputies from Franklin County here say the accountant, Paul L. Radcliffe, may have been killed because he may have discovered business discrepancies in connection with one of his clients.

The body of Radcliffe—who was slain by several blasts from a shotgun—was found in adjoining Delaware County near the Olentangy River Wednesday afternoon.

Bottom Falls Out Of Radio Station

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The bottom fell out of radio station WITY's programming.

The newsroom broke away a bit Friday. Doors jammed, walls split. Employees left, and the sun's rays pierced the "quiet-on-the-air" sign.

It happened when a vacated coal mine, directly underneath the studios, collapsed. The station was forced to terminate programming for more than an hour while inspectors assessed the damage.

"It could sink more," one inspector said. "Why, it could drop four feet by tomorrow — or two years from now. Then, again, it could stay where it is."

One staff member later returned to the building, resumed programming and hoped that the building would stay put.

Actor Basil Rathbone Dead of Heart Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Basil Rathbone, the suave Shakespearean actor familiar to two generations of moviegoers as the screen's clipped-accented Sherlock Holmes, is dead of a heart attack. He was 75.

Rathbone played the role of Arthur Conan Doyle's deerstalker-capped, fictional sleuth in 16 films midway in his career as a Hollywood star.

Although he achieved popular fame and considerable fortune through the Holmes series, Rathbone usually referred to the experience derisively after he quit.

"I played Holmes for seven years, and nobody thought I could do anything else," he once complained.

He was born the son of an English mining engineer in Johannesburg, South Africa. As a boy he narrowly escaped death at the hands of the Boers and his father decided to send him to England to be educated.

At 18 he went to work for an insurance company, an experience he found "frightfully dull and uninvigorating." Soon after he left and joined a Shakespearean troupe managed by his cousin, Sir Frank Benson.

During World War I he was a killed captain in the Liverpool Scottish Regiment. He once explained his war experience to an interviewer thus: "All I did, old man, was disguise myself as a tree — that's correct, a tree — and cross no-man's land to gather a bit of information from the German lines."

His Hollywood career included more than 100 films.

Among them were "David Copperfield," "Anna Karenina" and "Romeo and Juliet."

Earlier this year, playing the Duke of York in a television drama, "Soldier in Love," he told an interviewer: "If you close your eyes during the first act you may very well miss me. But when it is no longer a matter of being a romantic star, an actor can play what he wants to play. And I wanted to play the Duke of York."

He is survived by his wife, the former Ouida Bergere, whom he married in 1926, their daughter, Cynthia, and a son Rodion, by his previous marriage to Ethel Marian Forman which ended in divorce.

A funeral service will be held Tuesday morning at St. James Episcopal Church.
